COOLIDGE IN APPEAL FOR REHABILITATION

URGES FUND BE RAISED BY SUBSCRIPTIONS

ANXIOUS THAT FEDERAL FARM LOAN BOARD CO-OPERATE

FLOOD CONTROL LEGISLATION IS SOON TO BE DRAFTED

Washington, May 31. — (UP) — President Coolidge today issued an appeal for raising funds to furnish credit to stricken Mississippi valley flood regions for rehabilitation work.

He sent a letter to President Pierson of the United States Chamber of Commerce urging that a fund be raised equal to the $1,750,000 fund raised by the interested states. Mr. Coolidge suggested that the money be raised by subscription.

The president is anxious that the Federal Farm Loan Board co-operate and extend all possible credit facilities.

At the same time, Mr. Coolidge has directed all governmental agencies to co-operate with the flood control committee of the house and the commerce committee of the senate which are to meet soon in joint session to draft flood control legislation.

Washington, May 31.—The house flood control committee and the senate commerce committee will confer before congress convenes in December to draft flood control legislation, Sen. Robinson, Arkansas, democratic flood leader, declared today after a call at the White House.

Robinson said President Coolidge and Sen. Curtis, Kansas, republican floor leader, have agreed to this plan of starting flood relief legislation at the earliest possible moment.

Some members of the two committees are now in the Mississippi valley inspecting the flood area. Robinson said that as soon as the committees return, they will hold hearings here, calling Secretary of Commerce Hoover, engineers and other interested parties.

Robinson has drawn a bill appropriating $100,000,000 for repair of levees and construction of storage dams and spillways.

The bill's most important feature is authorization to the federal government for flood control in the Mississippi and its tributaries and outlets.

Northern industrial and banking houses have pledged assistance in doubling the loading power of financial corporations in the Mississippi flood area, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said today, following return from the south. The pledge, announced to Hoover by President Lewis Pierson of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will give Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas finance corporations a credit power of about $10,000,000. This sum with an anticipated $2,000,000 more raised by the Red Cross, will suffice for rehabilitation work, he said. The corporations will loan about $7.50 an acre.

New Orleans, La., May 31. — Efforts were rushed today to prevent inundation of Terrebonne and Lafourche parishes which lie in the direct path of the southern Louisiana flood waters.

Water at Morgan City, which lies between the two parishes and the flood, is on the rise.

Draw spans over the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad over Bayou Boeuf and the Atchafayala will be closed within a few days. Residents in the parish obtained permission to place a dam in Bayou Black in order to keep the water out of their lands.

The dam, which is under construction now, would divert the water into the low prairie lands of the district.

Bayou Black is the main channel of the intra-coastal canal from Houma to Morgan City. Prior to its closing a fleet of 20 to 25 boats was placed in the channel. These boats will be used in evacuating the flooded territory.

Approximately 3,000 persons remained in Morgan City. Small towns close by were inhabited and few of the townspeople were making motions toward leaving. The water is risingly slowly and there is little excitement.

Relief agencies, however, are planning to mobilize boats throughout the district in order to remove the residents to safety should the waters become more serious. In Morgan City there are a number of refugees from other districts.

From the Big Bend section to New Iberia the weather bureau reported a fall in water levels this morning. The water has decreased between one and three inches, the reports say.

In the upper part of Point Coupee parish, where the backwaters from the McCrea crevasse have inundated many acres of farm lands, no further rise is expected. The natural sand bar has diverted the main flood channel from the district.

Washington, May 31.—(UP) — President Coolidge entered upon the final two weeks before his vacation today writing two important speeches preparing for the annual business meeting of the government June 11 and making ready for review of the nation's armada at Hampton Roads, Va., next Saturday.

The speech to government chiefs and budget officials is expected to set forth the government's financial arrangement for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and will reveal what sum is available for next year's tax reduction.

Authentic indications have been given that the surplus will reach $600,000,000 and that the administration will favor using half of this sum for tax reduction, applying the other half to debt retirement.

The second address is to be made at Hammond, Ind., June 14 where the president will stop on his way to his summer White House in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Mr. Coolidge will leave Friday on the Mayflower from Hampton Roads to review the Pacific and Atlantic fleets which have joined for maneuvers. He will return Sunday for his final week in Washington.

Extensive preparations already are being undertaken to move Mr. Coolidge's necessary home and office supplies 1,800 miles to South Dakota. REASON AND LAW IN INTERNATIONAL PACTS, CONDUCT

Washington, May 31. — (UP) — President Coolidge wants "reason and law" to prevail in international agreements and conduct.

He made this clear in his Memorial Day speech at Arlington national cemetery, adding, however, that this nation should have adequate preparedness in view of some nations' envy of this country's prosperity.

"However much we wish to pursue the paths of peace, however much we are determined to live in peace terms of good will both at home and abroad," he said, "we cannot escape the fact that there are evil forces in the world which all past experience warns us will break out from time to time and do serious damage to lawful rights and the progress of civilization unless we are prepared to meet such situations with armed intervention. We could no more dispense with our military forces than we could dispense with our police forces."

The president also pleaded for unity among Americans and for banishment of sectional strife and jealousies.

75 YEAR OLD MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER

NICHOLAS SCHON BREAKS DOWN IN DISTRICT COURT AT ST. PAUL

SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR KILLING IDA ROBINSON

St. Paul, May 31.—(UP)—Nicholas Schon, amorous 75-year-old man, broke down in district court today and wept while Judge J. C. Michael sentenced him to life imprisonment for murder.

Schon pleaded guilty to killing Mrs. Ida Robinson, 40, mother of three children, May 10, when he discovered "she loved me to get my money."

After shooting Mrs. Robinson at his home here, the aged man called police and said he intended to take his own life next but "lost nerve" when he saw her lying there.

Schon, under examination by C. D. O'Brien, Jr., county attorney, admitted he served two years of a 10-years sentence in North Dakota on a charge of manslaughter.

The broken old man admitted he was charged with the atrocious crime in 1916 when his wife was found burned to death in her home. He was charged with having bound her to a sofa after shooting her to death and then poured gasoline about their Ellendale, N. D., residence.

At that time, Schon said, he told authorities that his wife, Catherine Cavanaugh Schon, was stricken with apoplexy and he set fire to the home.

RIGHT OF COAST GUARD OUTSIDE 12 MILE LIMIT

Washington, May 31. — (UP) — Right of the United States coast guard to enforce prohibition laws outside of the 12 mile limit was upheld by the United States supreme court in an opinion read today by Justice Brandeis. His announcement came in giving a decision upholding use of liquor, seized outside this limit, as evidence in conspiracy cases.

The decision on evidence was given in the James Leach case from Boston. The decision on the wide question of right of the guard to operate against American vessels anywhere on the high seas, in prohibition cases, was in the famous "underwriter" case, Brandeis said.

The decision is regarded as a wide prohibition victory, along a line which Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has emphasized in his enforcement efforts.

MAY HAVE FLOWN OVER LAKE ERIE

STRONG NORTHEAST WIND IS IN EVIDENCE AT AKRON, OHIO

BALLOON, SCRIPS-HOWARD, BELIEVED SIGHTED NEAR BUFFALO, N. Y.

Akron, O., May 31.—(UP)—All of the fifteen entrants in the national balloon race were believed somewhere over Canada today.

None of the fifteen pilots who soared away in the giant gas bags late yesterday had reported this morning and officials believed they had been wafted across Lake Erie and into the northland.

The balloons competing for the right to represent America in the Gordon Bennett International cup race, were carried away from the Cleveland-Akron speedway here yesterday on the wings of a strong northeast wind, without accident.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 31—A balloon believed to be the Scripps-Howard was sighted by a resident of Lake Alexander, about 40 miles from here, early today. The resident said he talked with the occupants of the balloon by megaphone and the pilot asked the direction to Buffalo.

Akron, O., May 31.—Two balloons of the 15 which started from here late yesterday in the national balloon race, had reported their whereabouts today, about 300 miles from Akron. The others were believed still in the air.

Lieut. T. G. W. Steele in the Navy No. 1, passed over Rochester, N. Y., at 7 A. M., officials here were advised.

Another message came from C. D. Williams, Jr., pilot of the Detroiter No. 1. He dropped a note at Gratz, Pa., at 5 A. M., saying he was about 500 feet in the tir.

Gratz is in Dauphin county, about 28 miles from Harrisburg and some 250 miles from Akron.

Kingston, Ont., May 31.—A balloon believed to be that representing the St. Louis Rotary club, drifted over Kingston today at 11:12 A. M. It was floating at about 1,700 feet in a northeasterly direction.

Rochester, N. Y., May 31—A large balloon was sighted at Pittsford, 12 miles from here today. A Pittsford resident reported seeing a big silver bag, about 3,000 to 4,000 feet high, coming from the west. An air current struck it and it drifted toward the northeast and Lake Ontario.

Washington, May 31.—(UP)—President Coolidge has directed the state department to study the "model" treaty outlawing war by two Columbia university professors, New York city. The president told friends today that he is much interested in the general subject of outlawing war and would be exceedingly pleased to find such aspirations put in practical form.

He will not comment on the professors' draft, however, until the state department has passed upon it.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT DANCE HALL

Hibbing, Minn., May 31.—(UP)—Rudolph Johnson, 21, of Little Swan, is in a critical condition at a hospital here today following a shooting affray at a dance hall near here.

Johnson is not expected to live.

SHOOTS SWEETHEART TO DEATH; THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Denver, Colo., May 31.—(UP)—After shooting to death his sweetheart, Lillian Rantaman, 33, in a rooming house here early today, Joe Charko, 35, took his own life with the same revolver.

The bodies of the pair were found by the proprietor of the rooming house.

Jealousy was attributed by police as the cause of the double tragedy.

MOB STORMS TAMPA JAIL, SEEKING SLAYER

EIGHT MEN WOUNDED, TWO SERIOUSLY, IN ATTACK

SOUGHT B. F. LEVINS, SLAYER OF A FATHER AND THREE CHILDREN

Tampa, Fla., May 31. — (UP)—Eight men were wounded, two seriously, when a mob of 600 stormed the Hillsborough county jail early today seeking B. F. Levins, self-confessed slayer of a father and three children.

At dawn the mob was reported to have dwindled away after a succession of volleys from the barricaded force of the sheriff.

Ambulances removed the wounded shortly before daybreak.

The most seriously wounded were.

Steve Barcena, Tampa, wounded in stomach, condition serious.

Val Davidson, Mackinaw, Ill., wounded in side, condition serious.

What remained of the mob at 4 a. m., was apparently well satisfied that Levins was not in the jail. A committee of invaders was allowed to search the building at the suggestion of Sheriff J. E. Jones.

The sheriff had previously announced the prisoner was confined elsewhere but his overtures failed to deter the mob.

A crowd started gathering before the jail doors at midnight. Soon it had grown to a mob of 500 which gathered courage with its increasing numbers. It pressed close to the jail door with a demand "let us in."

Sheriff Jones and a handful of keepers barricaded themselves inside and refused to surrender the pair.

Suddenly a truck pulled up before the building, street lights were smashed and a large timber was unloaded. The timber was put to use as a battering ram against the brick wall of the jail.

Shortly a hole large enough for a man to crawl through had been made in the wall. Deputies inside fired a volly from the aperture, according to witnesses, and eight men fell wounded.

The mob then moved out of range, dragging the injured across the street.

Levins confessed last week to the slaying of Herman Merrell, carpenter, and Merrell's three children, according to authorities. Mrs. Merrell and her 3-months-old child were severely beaten with a heavy maul. The family was attacked as it slept.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 31.—(UP)—A detachment of state guards stationed at the Tampa armory was ordered out today by Gov. John W. Martin.

The guards will patrol the vicinity of the Hillsborough county jail in Tampa, where a mob attempted early today to break in and take B. V. Levins, held for murder.

Gov. Martin's order followed a request for aid from prison officials who said they feared further mob demonstrations.

FUNERAL RITES FOR CAPT. MYRON H. COLE

Capt. Cole came to Faribault in 1872.

BESTOWS ON LINDBERGH AIR FORCE CROSS

SECOND MONARCH FLIER HAS GREETED IN FOUR DAYS

NOW DECORATED BY FRENCH, BELGIAN AND ENGLISH NATIONS

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, May 31. — King George today received Charles Lindbergh at Buckingham Palace and bestowed on the trans-Atlantic aviator the Air Force Cross.

The Missouri national guard captain's visit to Buckingham Palace came after he had said au revoir to the Ryan monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, which carried him from New York to Paris, Brussels and London. He flew the plane from Croydon airfield to Gosport, where it was to be dismantled at once for shipment to the United States, substantiating reports that the flier planned to return home within a few days.

After flying to Gosport, 75 miles away, Lindbergh returned to Croydon as a passenger in a Royal Air Force plane. He returned to the United States embassy in a motor car and dressed at once for his visit to King George—the second monarch he has greeted within four days.

The Air Force Cross was the third decoration bestowed on Lindbergh by a European nation. France made him a knight of the Legion of Honor and King Abert of the Belgians made him a Chevalier of the Order of Leopold.

The meeting between the Prince of Wales and Lindbergh, the two most popular and famous bachelors in the world, was private.

Wales received Lindbergh in his private apartments alone.

Lindbergh lunched privately with the air council, composed of air ministry officials, at Claridge's Hotel.

Buckingham Palace officials gathered in the vestibule to welcome Lindbergh. Princess Elizabeth, the infant daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, who are returning aboard H. M. S. Renown from a state visit to Australia, was brought down by her nurse to see Lindbergh.

As he was leaving the palace, Lindbergh took Princess Elizabeth's hand and patted her cheek.

Before going to the palace, Lindbergh paid a brief visit to Premier Baldwin at No. 10 Downing Street. Later he was received by the Prince of Wales.

The audience with the king lasted about 20 minutes. Lindbergh left the palace at 11:05 A. M. and drove directly to St. James Palace where he was received by the Prince of Wales. They talked until 11:30.

King George always has been interested in flying. He is a sailor himself and there is something akin between men of ships, whether of the air or of the sea. His majesty questioned Lindbergh fully about the trans-Atlantic flight and his eyes lighted with admiration.

Several hundreds of persons braved the drizzling rain to wait several hours before the grilled gates to the outer palace yard for Lindbergh's arrival. The unofficial welcomers lined both sides of the parkway by the time Lindbergh arrived and entered the palace at 10:40 A. M. The crowd cheered.

His Majesty King George can put on the best show in the world in the way of smart and gayly accountered troops and Lindbergh learned as much today. A band of 250 pieces played martial airs outside the palace all the while Lindbergh was with the king and 1,000 soldiers comprising detachments of the Welsh, Scottish, Irish and Grenadier Guards, marched past. A detachment of Life Guards mounted on black horses drew up at the left of the main palace entrance and remained until Lindbergh departed. The guards are the swells of the British army and are gorgeous to behold.

The military maneuvering near Buckingham Palace was part of the rehearsal of the ceremony of trooping the color, which will take place Saturday on King George's birthday. The scarlet uniforms of the guardsmen made a picturesque setting for Lindbergh's departure from the palace. The Duke of Connaught, in the roadway adjacent to the Victoria Memorial in front of the palace, took Schon, under examination by C. D. O'Brien, Jr., county attorney, admitted he served two years of a 10-years sentence in North Dakota on a charge of manslaughter.

The broken old man admitted he was charged with the atrocious crime in 1916 when his wife was found burned to death in her home. He was charged with having bound her to a sofa after shooting her to death and then poured gasoline about their Ellendale, N. D., residence.

At that time, Schon said, he told authorities that his wife, Catherine Cavanaugh Schon, was stricken with apoplexy and he set fire to the home.

RIGHT OF COAST GUARD OUTSIDE 12 MILE LIMIT

Washington, May 31. — (UP) — Right of the United States coast guard to enforce prohibition laws outside of the 12 mile limit was upheld by the United States supreme court in an opinion read today by Justice Brandeis. His announcement came in giving a decision upholding use of liquor, seized outside this limit, as evidence in conspiracy cases.

The decision on evidence was given in the James Leach case from Boston. The decision on the wide question of right of the guard to operate against American vessels anywhere on the high seas, in prohibition cases, was in the famous "underwriter" case, Brandeis said.

The decision is regarded as a wide prohibition victory, along a line which Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has emphasized in his enforcement efforts.

MAY HAVE FLOWN OVER LAKE ERIE

STRONG NORTHEAST WIND IS IN EVIDENCE AT AKRON, OHIO

BALLOON, SCRIPS-HOWARD, BELIEVED SIGHTED NEAR BUFFALO, N. Y.

Akron, O., May 31.—(UP)—All of the fifteen entrants in the national balloon race were believed somewhere over Canada today.

None of the fifteen pilots who soared away in the giant gas bags late yesterday had reported this morning and officials believed they had been wafted across Lake Erie and into the northland.

The balloons competing for the right to represent America in the Gordon Bennett International cup race, were carried away from the Cleveland-Akron speedway here yesterday on the wings of a strong northeast wind, without accident.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 31—A balloon believed to be the Scripps-Howard was sighted by a resident of Lake Alexander, about 40 miles from here, early today. The resident said he talked with the occupants of the balloon by megaphone and the pilot asked the direction to Buffalo.

Akron, O., May 31.—Two balloons of the 15 which started from here late yesterday in the national balloon race, had reported their whereabouts today, about 300 miles from Akron. The others were believed still in the air.

Lieut. T. G. W. Steele in the Navy No. 1, passed over Rochester, N. Y., at 7 A. M., officials here were advised.

Another message came from C. D. Williams, Jr., pilot of the Detroiter No. 1. He dropped a note at Gratz, Pa., at 5 A. M., saying he was about 500 feet in the tir.

Gratz is in Dauphin county, about 28 miles from Harrisburg and some 250 miles from Akron.

Kingston, Ont., May 31.—A balloon believed to be that representing the St. Louis Rotary club, drifted over Kingston today at 11:12 A. M. It was floating at about 1,700 feet in a northeasterly direction.

Rochester, N. Y., May 31—A large balloon was sighted at Pittsford, 12 miles from here today. A Pittsford resident reported seeing a big silver bag, about 3,000 to 4,000 feet high, coming from the west. An air current struck it and it drifted toward the northeast and Lake Ontario.

'MODEL' TREATY OUTLAWING WAR TO BE STUDIED

Washington, May 31.—(UP)—President Coolidge has directed the state department to study the "model" treaty outlawing war by two Columbia university professors, New York city. The president told friends today that he is much interested in the general subject of outlawing war and would be exceedingly pleased to find such aspirations put in practical form.

He will not comment on the professors' draft, however, until the state department has passed upon it.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT DANCE HALL

Hibbing, Minn., May 31.—(UP)—Rudolph Johnson, 21, of Little Swan, is in a critical condition at a hospital here today following a shooting affray at a dance hall near here.

Oscar Mannila, town constable at Toivola, where the shooting occurred, surrendered to county officials as the person who shot Johnson.

Johnson is not expected to live.

SHOOTS SWEETHEART TO DEATH; THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Denver, Colo., May 31.—(UP)—After shooting to death his sweetheart, Lillian Rantaman, 33, in a rooming house here early today, Joe Charko, 35, took his own life with the same revolver.

The bodies of the pair were found by the proprietor of the rooming house.

Jealousy was attributed by police as the cause of the double tragedy.

MOB STORMS TAMPA JAIL, SEEKING SLAYER

EIGHT MEN WOUNDED, TWO SERIOUSLY, IN ATTACK

SOUGHT B. F. LEVINS, SLAYER OF A FATHER AND THREE CHILDREN

Tampa, Fla., May 31. — (UP)—Eight men were wounded, two seriously, when a mob of 600 stormed the Hillsborough county jail early today seeking B. F. Levins, self-confessed slayer of a father and three children.

At dawn the mob was reported to have dwindled away after a succession of volleys from the barricaded force of the sheriff.

Ambulances removed the wounded shortly before daybreak.

The most seriously wounded were.

Steve Barcena, Tampa, wounded in stomach, condition serious.

Val Davidson, Mackinaw, Ill., wounded in side, condition serious.

What remained of the mob at 4 a. m., was apparently well satisfied that Levins was not in the jail. A committee of invaders was allowed to search the building at the suggestion of Sheriff J. E. Jones.

The sheriff had previously announced the prisoner was confined elsewhere but his overtures failed to deter the mob.

A crowd started gathering before the jail doors at midnight. Soon it had grown to a mob of 500 which gathered courage with its increasing numbers. It pressed close to the jail door with a demand "let us in."

Sheriff Jones and a handful of keepers barricaded themselves inside and refused to surrender the pair.

Suddenly a truck pulled up before the building, street lights were smashed and a large timber was unloaded. The timber was put to use as a battering ram against the brick wall of the jail.

Shortly a hole large enough for a man to crawl through had been made in the wall. Deputies inside fired a volly from the aperture, according to witnesses, and eight men fell wounded.

The mob then moved out of range, dragging the injured across the street.

Levins confessed last week to the slaying of Herman Merrell, carpenter, and Merrell's three children, according to authorities. Mrs. Merrell and her 3-months-old child were severely beaten with a heavy maul. The family was attacked as it slept.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 31.—(UP)—A detachment of state guards stationed at the Tampa armory was ordered out today by Gov. John W. Martin.

The guards will patrol the vicinity of the Hillsborough county jail in Tampa, where a mob attempted early today to break in and take B. V. Levins, held for murder.

Gov. Martin's order followed a request for aid from prison officials who said they feared further mob demonstrations.

FUNERAL RITES FOR CAPT. MYRON H. COLE

Faribault, Minn., May 31.—(UP)—Funeral services were held here today for Capt. Myron H. Cole, Civil war veteran, who died at his home Saturday.

Capt. Cole was well known throughout this section of the state. He was born in New York Nov. 24, 1836 and served three years during the internal strife with Co. E 44th New York infantry.

Capt. Cole came to Faribault in 1872.

BESTOWS ON LINDBERGH AIR FORCE CROSS

SECOND MONARCH FLIER HAS GREETED IN FOUR DAYS

NOW DECORATED BY FRENCH, BELGIAN AND ENGLISH NATIONS

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, May 31. — King George today received Charles Lindbergh at Buckingham Palace and bestowed on the trans-Atlantic aviator the Air Force Cross.

The Missouri national guard captain's visit to Buckingham Palace came after he had said au revoir to the Ryan monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, which carried him from New York to Paris, Brussels and London. He flew the plane from Croydon airfield to Gosport, where it was to be dismantled at once for shipment to the United States, substantiating reports that the flier planned to return home within a few days.

After flying to Gosport, 75 miles away, Lindbergh returned to Croydon as a passenger in a Royal Air Force plane. He returned to the United States embassy in a motor car and dressed at once for his visit to King George—the second monarch he has greeted within four days.

The Air Force Cross was the third decoration bestowed on Lindbergh by a European nation. France made him a knight of the Legion of Honor and King Abert of the Belgians made him a Chevalier of the Order of Leopold.

The meeting between the Prince of Wales and Lindbergh, the two most popular and famous bachelors in the world, was private.

Wales received Lindbergh in his private apartments alone.

Lindbergh lunched privately with the air council, composed of air ministry officials, at Claridge's Hotel.

Buckingham Palace officials gathered in the vestibule to welcome Lindbergh. Princess Elizabeth, the infant daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, who are returning aboard H. M. S. Renown from a state visit to Australia, was brought down by her nurse to see Lindbergh.

As he was leaving the palace, Lindbergh took Princess Elizabeth's hand and patted her cheek.

Before going to the palace, Lindbergh paid a brief visit to Premier Baldwin at No. 10 Downing Street. Later he was received by the Prince of Wales.

The audience with the king lasted about 20 minutes. Lindbergh left the palace at 11:05 A. M. and drove directly to St. James Palace where he was received by the Prince of Wales. They talked until 11:30.

King George always has been interested in flying. He is a sailor himself and there is something akin between men of ships, whether of the air or of the sea. His majesty questioned Lindbergh fully about the trans-Atlantic flight and his eyes lighted with admiration.

Several hundreds of persons braved the drizzling rain to wait several hours before the grilled gates to the outer palace yard for Lindbergh's arrival. The unofficial welcomers lined both sides of the parkway by the time Lindbergh arrived and entered the palace at 10:40 A. M. The crowd cheered.

His Majesty King George can put on the best show in the world in the way of smart and gayly accountered troops and Lindbergh learned as much today. A band of 250 pieces played martial airs outside the palace all the while Lindbergh was with the king and 1,000 soldiers comprising detachments of the Welsh, Scottish, Irish and Grenadier Guards, marched past. A detachment of Life Guards mounted on black horses drew up at the left of the main palace entrance and remained until Lindbergh departed. The guards are the swells of the British army and are gorgeous to behold.

The military maneuvering near Buckingham Palace was part of the rehearsal of the ceremony of trooping the color, which will take place Saturday on King George's birthday. The scarlet uniforms of the guardsmen made a picturesque setting for Lindbergh's departure from the palace. The Duke of Connaught, in the roadway adjacent to the Victoria Memorial in front of the palace, took

A NEW USE for an OLD KITCHEN CHAIR

ENAMEL IT— and USE it on the PORCH

Wise home-owners can practice a thousand and one interesting little economies, if they have the imagination—and are willing to buy a brush and a can of paint, varnish, enamel, or brushing lacquer.

Articles of furniture, which seem to have outlived their period of usefulness because they look "old," can be brought back to their original state by a modest amount of personal effort. What of the old chairs—perhaps kitchen chairs that are an eye-sore? A coat of glistening enamel will make them as pretty as those you see in the modern tea shops, and the side veranda or the front porch, during the summer months, can boast a new attraction.

Indians Burned Coal

Dr. Walter Hough gives the Pueblo Indians credit for the first use of coal for fuel. They dug it out of surface veins in Arizona, and with it heated their kilns for firing pottery. There seems to be no evidence, however, that its fuel value was put to any other use, such as cooking or warming dwellings, until centuries later when civilized man discovered its possibilities.

Famous Sacred River

Jordan is the name of the well known sacred river of Palestine. It rises in the north among the foothills of the Lebanon mountains, and flowing southward in a very sinuous course, passes through the sea of Galilee or Tiberias, reaches the Dead sea, which is 1,316 feet below the level of the Mediterranean sea. The length of the River Jordan is 120 miles.

Don't Shoot

Murder with a knife has somewhat gone out, because marks and fingerprints left on the knife are apt to betray the killer. But a short time ago, no one would have thought that a bullet could identify the man who sent it from his gun. Now, science is able to distinguish the scratches and grooves on fatal bullets, and determine from what revolver they were fired, for it seems that each weapon has distinctive marks in the bore of its barrel. When every other trace has been removed, the murderer is still in danger of detection, says the Scientific American, if the criminal has been careless enough to leave a bullet in his victim's body.

Couldn't Help

Coming into the living room one day, Mrs. Noble Smith found her small niece standing by a table and studying with a rather troubled countenance the page of a health magazine, out of which she had unfolded a good-sized picture of a skeleton. So intent was she that she did not notice her aunt until she said: "What's the matter, dear?"—for the child looked so worried.

"Aunt Florence," she said, drawing a long sigh as though she gave up trying to understand it, "here's a man God didn't finish!" — Los Angeles Times.

Soft-Hearted Warders

Local authorities at Raratonga, Cook islands, are gentle with prisoners. A judge from New Zealand, having sentenced a man to ten years' hard labor at Auckland, was surprised to find the prisoner sitting next to him at a movie theater the night before his departure for prison. The native warders felt that, since the criminal was going away to have an unhappy time, he might as well have one pleasant night before his departure.

An Indian Farewell

The journalistic symbol, "30," meaning the end, has a queer Indian origin in Bengali, "80" is employed to mean "farewell" and means, literally, "I quit." One Mr. Holwell, an English officer in Fort William, Calcutta, used the figure at the end of a letter which he sent to the East India company in 1758. The company, out of fun, used the figure in their publication, mistakenly making it 30. Hence came the use.—D. R. Ghosh, in The Quill.

Extravagant

The casting agent blew himself to a radio and explained to his wife all about the dials and proudly pointed to the eight tubes, which were guaranteed to bring in the distance.

"You just take out seven of those tubes," cried his wife, "and use them one at a time, they're too expensive to use up all at once."

Matter of Strength

Most men do not lack strength, rather the will to use it, and knowledge how best to apply it. Physical strength needs the will to decide and the brain to direct, to insure use that will prove profitable.—Grit.

Think twice before you speak and the chances are the other fellow will make a fool of himself.—Boston Transcript.

To Perpetuate His Name

Greeley wrote in his "Recollections of a Busy Life": "Fame is a vapor; popularity an accident; riches take wings; the only earthly certainty is oblivion; no man can foresee what a day can bring forth; while those who cheer today will often curse tomorrow; and yet I cherish the hope that the journal I projected and established will live and flourish long after I shall have moldered into forgotten dust, being guided by a larger wisdom, a more unerring sagacity to discern the right, though not by an unfaltering readiness, to embrace and defend it at whatever personal cost, and that the stone which covers my ashes may bear to future eyes the still intelligible inspiration, 'Founder of the New York Tribune.'"—From "Horace Greeley," by Don C. Seitz.

Friends

After all this, treat thy friend nobly, love to be with him, do to him all the worthinesses of love and fair endearment, according to thy capacity and his . . . Give him gifts and upbraid him not, and refuse not his kindnesses, and be sure never to despise the smallness or the impropriety of them . . . So must the love of friends sometimes be refreshed with material and low caresses, lest by striving to be too divine it become less human: it must be allowed its share of both; it is human in giving pardon and fair construction, and openness and ingenuity, and keeping secrets; it hath something that is divine because it is beneficent; but much because it is eternal.—Jeremy Taylor.

Unfortunate Letter

In English the letter "e" occurs most frequently, says Frank H. Vizetelly, the dictionary sharp. But it is the most unfortunate character in the alphabet because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. It has its bright side, too, for it is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no editors, no printers, no news and no announcers!—Exchange.

Sterling Silver

Sterling silver is silver of a guaranteed purity, which is 925 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal; the remainder is copper. The Federal Hallmark act of 1906, relating to gold and silver in interstate and foreign commerce, forbids the marking or labeling of silver as "sterling" unless it is within four-thousandths of this standard. Articles marked "coin silver" should contain 900 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS--- ABOUT JEWELS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, May 26.—(UP)—The Summer of 1927 will be a season for pink jewelry. One can't recall a time when pink has been the popular jewelry color that it is today. Perhaps the reason for pink's popularity is the present fashion for flesh pink tones in millinery, afternoon gowns and trimmings.

To my mind the most beautiful pink jewel is turmaline but this is beyond the means of the average woman. However, turmaline bead necklaces, turmaline rings, bracelets and earrings are among the most coveted of costume jewels at present. Next in importance to turmaline is rose quart. Rose quartz is a pale, cloudy-pink semi-precious stone which is most flattering to everyone. Chokers made of rather large carved rose quartz beads with large rose quartz fastenings which are worn at the front of the neck, are beautiful. While they are not especially cheap since they are semi-precious, they can be worn with Summery frocks for many years.

Old-fashioned coral jewelry is also fashionable. One sees corals in antique settings in some of the smartest shops. For instance, one shop has a choker and matching bracelet made of tiny coral rosebuds set in oxidized silver ovals held together by tiny silver chain. Coral flower brooches such as our Grandmothers wore are being worn on the shoulder instead of a corsage.

Rose pearls in choker and long lengths are also popular. Brilliant pink pearls are not as well liked as the paler pink tints. Pearls in pale green, pale orchid and pale yellowish tones are also shown although pink tones are preferable this Summer.

Next in importance to pink is amethyst colored jewelry. First, there are the real amethyst chains of solid beads or the carved amethyst chokers. Amethyst, like rose quartz, can hardly be called department store jewelry although a few of the shops include it in their displays. It is in oriental shops that one usually finds these imported semi-precious jewels. There are some necklaces of clear amethyst glass, often called crystal, which look very well. Pale amethyst pearls are also to be found. But when one reaches the stage where imitation jewelry is distasteful because of its commonplaceness, let us suggest some of the semi-precious necklaces, rings or bracelets which have real value and which can be worn a life time. The amount one dribbles away on cheap jewelry in a season will buy a piece of jewelry that has some value. Among the ever popular semi-precious stones which can be found in bead form are jade, turmaline amethyst, rose quartz, carnelian, calcedony, turquoise matrix, lapis lazuli and amber.

New York, May 27. — (UP)— Among the beaded, fringed and sequined gowns which were worn at a fashionable ball last evening, three tulle gowns attracted most of the attention. Perhaps it was because one is a bit weary of glitter and beaded fringes or, perhaps because tulle seems to spell youthfulness. At any rate, it was simple tulle gowns which caused most comment.

One gown made of pale gray tulle was like a Summer cloud. It's bodice was semi-fitted and shirred slightly from under-bustline to the low waistline where a skirt formed of rows and rows of tiny tulle ruffles was fluffiness personified. A cluster of tulle orchids was posed on one shoulder and a single orchid was worn on the opposite hip. Pale gray satin slippers and gray hosiery were worn.

A similiar gown was made of lavender tulle posed over a flesh-toned chiffon slip. In this instance the skirt was cut short in front and dipped at the rear in period fashion. The bodice was of almost normal waist-line and a crushed pink velvet sash was worn about the waist tying with a bow at the rear, streamer ends falling to the hem-line. The skirt was trimmed with five deep tulle tiers, one overlapping another.

The third gown was made entirely of nude tulle. The bodice was straight-lined and attached to the full skirt by means of a wide shirred belt. Extra strips of tulle dangeled from the skirt being set on in handkerchief drape fashion. Twin shoulder corsage of nude-toned tulle flowers added to the daintiness of the gown.

One other tulle gown worn by an attractive blond girl was effective since it combined black tulle over a flesh-toned foundation. The tiers on this skirt were set on in zigzag fashion and the skirt dipped much lower at the left side than on the right. The new neckline which would be square were it not made lower on one side than on the other, was used on this gown and a bright red rose was placed at the corner of the lower neckline. Of course, the neck-line dipped on the left side since the skirt also dipped at the left. One might almost call this a one-sided frock but its effect was not at all garish.

Wrapping Up Parcels of Dreams

No one has ever entered our store to inquire for a "package of dreams" and yet that is really what our 773 stores sell. Perhaps we've all formed the habit of never asking for what we truly want. Youth comes in to inquire for a Blue Dress, and carries out a bit of Romance for Saturday night under her arm. The matron sighs enviously as she passes the rack of sports sweaters, and a saleswoman exchanges some silver coins for a colorful bit of Youth.

The J. C. Penney Company has always trained its salesforce to fulfill, not only the expressed wants of its customers, but to find out and satisfy, if possible, those hidden longings we all tuck away in the corners of our hearts.

Youth, Romance, Adventure, Fun and Dreams — they are all passed across our counters in brown paper parcels for our customers to take home.

Indians Burned Coal

Dr. Walter Hough gives the Pueblo Indians credit for the first use of coal for fuel. They dug it out of surface veins in Arizona, and with it heated their kilns for firing pottery. There seems to be no evidence, however, that its fuel value was put to any other use, such as cooking or warming dwellings, until centuries later when civilized man discovered its possibilities.

Famous Sacred River

Jordan is the name of the well known sacred river of Palestine. It rises in the north among the foothills of the Lebanon mountains, and flowing southward in a very sinuous course, passes through the sea of Galilee or Tiberias, reaches the Dead sea, which is 1,316 feet below the level of the Mediterranean sea. The length of the River Jordan is 120 miles.

Don't Shoot

Murder with a knife has somewhat gone out, because marks and fingerprints left on the knife are apt to betray the killer. But a short time ago, no one would have thought that a bullet could identify the man who sent it from his gun. Now, science is able to distinguish the scratches and grooves on fatal bullets, and determine from what revolver they were fired, for it seems that each weapon has distinctive marks in the bore of its barrel. When every other trace has been removed, the murderer is still in danger of detection, says the Scientific American, if the criminal has been careless enough to leave a bullet in his victim's body.

Couldn't Help

Coming into the living room one day, Mrs. Noble Smith found her small niece standing by a table and studying with a rather troubled countenance the page of a health magazine, out of which she had unfolded a good-sized picture of a skeleton. So intent was she that she did not notice her aunt until she said: "What's the matter, dear?"—for the child looked so worried.

"Aunt Florence," she said, drawing a long sigh as though she gave up trying to understand it, "here's a man God didn't finish!" — Los Angeles Times.

Soft-Hearted Warders

Local authorities at Raratonga, Cook islands, are gentle with prisoners. A judge from New Zealand, having sentenced a man to ten years' hard labor at Auckland, was surprised to find the prisoner sitting next to him at a movie theater the night before his departure for prison. The native warders felt that, since the criminal was going away to have an unhappy time, he might as well have one pleasant night before his departure.

An Indian Farewell

The journalistic symbol, "30," meaning the end, has a queer Indian origin in Bengali, "80" is employed to mean "farewell" and means, literally, "I quit." One Mr. Holwell, an English officer in Fort William, Calcutta, used the figure at the end of a letter which he sent to the East India company in 1758. The company, out of fun, used the figure in their publication, mistakenly making it 30. Hence came the use.—D. R. Ghosh, in The Quill.

Extravagant

The casting agent blew himself to a radio and explained to his wife all about the dials and proudly pointed to the eight tubes, which were guaranteed to bring in the distance.

"You just take out seven of those tubes," cried his wife, "and use them one at a time, they're too expensive to use up all at once."

Matter of Strength

Most men do not lack strength, rather the will to use it, and knowledge how best to apply it. Physical strength needs the will to decide and the brain to direct, to insure use that will prove profitable.—Grit.

To Perpetuate His Name

Greeley wrote in his "Recollections of a Busy Life": "Fame is a vapor; popularity an accident; riches take wings; the only earthly certainty is oblivion; no man can foresee what a day can bring forth; while those who cheer today will often curse tomorrow; and yet I cherish the hope that the journal I projected and established will live and flourish long after I shall have moldered into forgotten dust, being guided by a larger wisdom, a more unerring sagacity to discern the right, though not by an unfaltering readiness, to embrace and defend it at whatever personal cost, and that the stone which covers my ashes may bear to future eyes the still intelligible inspiration, 'Founder of the New York Tribune.'"—From "Horace Greeley," by Don C. Seitz.

Friends

After all this, treat thy friend nobly, love to be with him, do to him all the worthinesses of love and fair endearment, according to thy capacity and his . . . Give him gifts and upbraid him not, and refuse not his kindnesses, and be sure never to despise the smallness or the impropriety of them . . . So must the love of friends sometimes be refreshed with material and low caresses, lest by striving to be too divine it become less human: it must be allowed its share of both; it is human in giving pardon and fair construction, and openness and ingenuity, and keeping secrets; it hath something that is divine because it is beneficent; but much because it is eternal.—Jeremy Taylor.

Unfortunate Letter

In English the letter "e" occurs most frequently, says Frank H. Vizetelly, the dictionary sharp. But it is the most unfortunate character in the alphabet because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. It has its bright side, too, for it is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no editors, no printers, no news and no announcers!—Exchange.

Sterling Silver

Sterling silver is silver of a guaranteed purity, which is 925 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal; the remainder is copper. The Federal Hallmark act of 1906, relating to gold and silver in interstate and foreign commerce, forbids the marking or labeling of silver as "sterling" unless it is within four-thousandths of this standard. Articles marked "coin silver" should contain 900 parts of pure silver in 1,000 parts of the metal.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS--- ABOUT JEWELS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, May 26.—(UP)—The Summer of 1927 will be a season for pink jewelry. One can't recall a time when pink has been the popular jewelry color that it is today. Perhaps the reason for pink's popularity is the present fashion for flesh pink tones in millinery, afternoon gowns and trimmings.

To my mind the most beautiful pink jewel is turmaline but this is beyond the means of the average woman. However, turmaline bead necklaces, turmaline rings, bracelets and earrings are among the most coveted of costume jewels at present. Next in importance to turmaline is rose quart. Rose quartz is a pale, cloudy-pink semi-precious stone which is most flattering to everyone. Chokers made of rather large carved rose quartz beads with large rose quartz fastenings which are worn at the front of the neck, are beautiful. While they are not especially cheap since they are semi-precious, they can be worn with Summery frocks for many years.

Old-fashioned coral jewelry is also fashionable. One sees corals in antique settings in some of the smartest shops. For instance, one shop has a choker and matching bracelet made of tiny coral rosebuds set in oxidized silver ovals held together by tiny silver chain. Coral flower brooches such as our Grandmothers wore are being worn on the shoulder instead of a corsage.

Rose pearls in choker and long lengths are also popular. Brilliant pink pearls are not as well liked as the paler pink tints. Pearls in pale green, pale orchid and pale yellowish tones are also shown although pink tones are preferable this Summer.

Next in importance to pink is amethyst colored jewelry. First, there are the real amethyst chains of solid beads or the carved amethyst chokers. Amethyst, like rose quartz, can hardly be called department store jewelry although a few of the shops include it in their displays. It is in oriental shops that one usually finds these imported semi-precious jewels. There are some necklaces of clear amethyst glass, often called crystal, which look very well. Pale amethyst pearls are also to be found. But when one reaches the stage where imitation jewelry is distasteful because of its commonplaceness, let us suggest some of the semi-precious necklaces, rings or bracelets which have real value and which can be worn a life time. The amount one dribbles away on cheap jewelry in a season will buy a piece of jewelry that has some value. Among the ever popular semi-precious stones which can be found in bead form are jade, turmaline amethyst, rose quartz, carnelian, calcedony, turquoise matrix, lapis lazuli and amber.

New York, May 27. — (UP)— Among the beaded, fringed and sequined gowns which were worn at a fashionable ball last evening, three tulle gowns attracted most of the attention. Perhaps it was because one is a bit weary of glitter and beaded fringes or, perhaps because tulle seems to spell youthfulness. At any rate, it was simple tulle gowns which caused most comment.

One gown made of pale gray tulle was like a Summer cloud. It's bodice was semi-fitted and shirred slightly from under-bustline to the low waistline where a skirt formed of rows and rows of tiny tulle ruffles was fluffiness personified. A cluster of tulle orchids was posed on one shoulder and a single orchid was worn on the opposite hip. Pale gray satin slippers and gray hosiery were worn.

A similiar gown was made of lavender tulle posed over a flesh-toned chiffon slip. In this instance the skirt was cut short in front and dipped at the rear in period fashion. The bodice was of almost normal waist-line and a crushed pink velvet sash was worn about the waist tying with a bow at the rear, streamer ends falling to the hem-line. The skirt was trimmed with five deep tulle tiers, one overlapping another.

The third gown was made entirely of nude tulle. The bodice was straight-lined and attached to the full skirt by means of a wide shirred belt. Extra strips of tulle dangeled from the skirt being set on in handkerchief drape fashion. Twin shoulder corsage of nude-toned tulle flowers added to the daintiness of the gown.

One other tulle gown worn by an attractive blond girl was effective since it combined black tulle over a flesh-toned foundation. The tiers on this skirt were set on in zigzag fashion and the skirt dipped much lower at the left side than on the right. The new neckline which would be square were it not made lower on one side than on the other, was used on this gown and a bright red rose was placed at the corner of the lower neckline. Of course, the neck-line dipped on the left side since the skirt also dipped at the left. One might almost call this a one-sided frock but its effect was not at all garish.

Wrapping Up Parcels of Dreams

No one has ever entered our store to inquire for a "package of dreams" and yet that is really what our 773 stores sell. Perhaps we've all formed the habit of never asking for what we truly want. Youth comes in to inquire for a Blue Dress, and carries out a bit of Romance for Saturday night under her arm. The matron sighs enviously as she passes the rack of sports sweaters, and a saleswoman exchanges some silver coins for a colorful bit of Youth.

The J. C. Penney Company has always trained its salesforce to fulfill, not only the expressed wants of its customers, but to find out and satisfy, if possible, those hidden longings we all tuck away in the corners of our hearts.

Youth, Romance, Adventure, Fun and Dreams — they are all passed across our counters in brown paper parcels for our customers to take home.

OUR FRIEND, THE GAME WARDEN

THE old conception of a game warden as a man who should be feared and his work obstructed in every way possible is fast giving way and sportsmen are coming to recognize him as a friend.

It is not strange that there was opposition to the activities of the game warden in the early days. Men had been used to hunting at all seasons of the year, and to them, legislation restrictions concerning the taking of game and fish was an encroachment on their personal rights. They did not think that there would ever be a time when game and fish would not be plentiful. In reality, they thought very little of the future along that particular line. Their big job was to tame the country and they were taming with an iron hand.

However, as the years passed by and the shortage of game and fish became more apparent, sportsmen began to realize that the game warden was in reality a friend. They discovered that the laws which he was trying to enforce had been passed for their own protection and that without them the attractions of field and stream would soon be gone. They also discovered that the game warden was a very human fellow and that he did not intend to persecute anybody. They learned that the game warden and the game and fish department, in a scientific way was endeavoring to make hunting and fishing better. The game wardens discovered that they could get a tremendous amount of co-operation from the sportsmen. They also learned that sportsmen were anxious to introduce new game into the state and again the two elements were able to work together. The sportsman introduced the game and the wardens protected it after it was here. Thus, as the result of this co-operation, the citizens of the state were afforded sport that they never enjoyed before.

The game warden is the friend of every citizen. His sole duty is to try to make conditions such that there will be more fish and game. Through his activities the outdoors should become more interesting. He is not trying to deprive any citizen of anything. He is merely protecting the property that belongs to all of us—the creatures of the wild. He should have our co-operation and help every time he needs it.—Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

"GLAD HANDING" THE TOURISTS

"GLAD HANDING" the tourists is a commendable undertaking, but it takes a large force of volunteers to make it continuous. The undertaking, sponsored this year by the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, Brainerd Lions club, Brainerd Rotary and Mayor Frank E. Little, worked successfully the limited time it was in operation.

Friday saw the outriders of the tourist army, anxious to enjoy its two days of vacation, put in their appearance at Brainerd.

Saturday and Sunday the flood burst. George Sweet, on from 1 to 3 P. M. Saturday, kept tab of his assignment, and distributed literature to 56 cars, answered nine requests for information satisfactorily and counted the cars of foreign habitat. There were cars from Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, California, North Dakota, Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Iowa.

After Mr. Sweet finished his task Saturday afternoon, it was most difficult to get any more volunteers, although club secretaries were busy telephoning. The plan had been to continue "glad handing" and distributing literature until 7 P. M.

Sunday forenoon B. L. Mathiesen talked to over 150 cars or 460 people and was certainly kept busy. In the afternoon Ed Gruenhagen kept vigil at Sixth and Laurel streets, and was also a busy man. All appreciated the courtesies paid them, and were glad to get advice on roads, their condition and location, etc.

It is not a difficult matter to gain the necessary literature and the Chamber of Commerce has a large supply of maps of the Brainerd Lake Region. The most difficult thing is to get the volunteers enrolled who can devote an hour or two to the distribution of the liaterature and answering questions of tourists.

County Commissioner Frank Lowey was a mine of information, for only recently he had made a tour of the county road system. Henry I. Cohen, R. R. Gould, D. C. Gray, and others at the task, were also most efficient.

MORE PEOPLE FISH THIS YEAR

IT is peculiar but nevertheless a fact that more people are fishing this season than any year before and in spite of the license money they must pay into the state before given a permit to fish. It just goes to show that advertising pays. If the folks had not been reminded of fishing as they were through the matter of licenses it is doubtful if they would have planned to fish at all this year. They read about the 50c license fee and in reading about it they read of fishing and learned that Minnesota had such a great sport. Following this they went looking for a license and when they had that they of course must go fishing and there we have more fishermen this season than ever before.

Fishing is a great sport and this grand and glorious state of ours excels all others in its lakes and rivers. We who live here in its midst are most apt to overlook our resources and the matter of fishing licenses proves it to the most skeptical.—Verndale Sun.

REAL advertising, by its persistency, starts the subconscious mind to working. For instance you know what kodak you think of, when the subject of kodaks engrosses you. The same way with maple syrup, safety razors, baking powder, chewing gum, tires, cars, gasoline, suspenders, clothes, etc., etc. It's the advertised kind that stick in your memory. As to the unadvertised brands, you find them if you have the time to inventory stocks.

THE transient canvasser does the town little good. "If he wants to do business in the town let him locate here, pay taxes and help support our churches and schools," says the Mille Lacs County Times.

THE user of any telephone can contribute to ease of operation by being careful how he answers a call. Do not attack your telephone as though resenting the call and considering it a raid on your seclusion. Lift the receiver kindly and nicely from the hook. Any other movement gets a reflection of your motion in the ear of the party calling you.

JUNE 14th is Flag Day but the slogan of the United States Flag Association, "Honor the Flag and Uphold Its Ideals", should be carried out every day of every month of the year, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

The concert given by the Brainerd Marine band last night in Gardner hall assisted by local musical artists was one of the best that has been given for some time. The hall never held a larger audience than last night and every number on the very excellent program was encored heartily.

F. E. Stout left last night for Portland, Ore., where he will act as best man at the wedding of his brother, J. Harold Stout.

J. A. Carp of the East hotel and Miss Mary Kreglow were married by Judge Blewitt last night.

It will be remembered that the city council at its last meeting decided to allow the matter of purchasing meters for the city to be left in the hands of the purchasing committee. This was on motion done. The committee met last night and decided to order the Wessington meters and as a representative of that concern happened to be in the city the contract was closed at once. It will be a "hurry up" order and they will be shipped at once.

Last night there was quite an enthusiastic meeting of the retail grocers of the city which had been called by Secretary Fred Mason of the Retail Grocers Association of St. Paul. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of organizing an association of the grocerymen of this city. This was done, the organization being perfected by the election of the following officers: President Con O'Brien, Vice President J. A. Arnold and Secretary Howard Paine.

the salute today, but the king will take the salute Saturday. It was a complete rehearsal with the Prince of Wales and the military attaches of the embassies participating.

After passing the Duke of Connaught, the troops wheeled and entered the courtyard of the palace. Almost simultaneously the crowd began cheering for Lindbergh who emerged just then. Cheering crowds lined the entire route of a quarter of a mile to St. James Palace.

Lindbergh had seen the earlier part of the rehearsal of trooping the color in the Horse Guards' parade. With Premier and Mrs. Baldwin, Lindbergh watched from the back wall of No. 10 Downing Street which overlooks the parade. The troops then marched to Buckingham Palace headed by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught who rode up the Mall together. Wales then returned to St. James Palace to receive Lindbergh.

Lindbergh told newspapermen he had definitely cancelled his proposed trip to Sweden, and said that when he left London he would fly to Paris and embark from France for America.

Lindbergh will be the guest of Lord Lonsdale at the derby tomorrow.

Richard Dix as "Knockout Reilly" A Paramount Picture

Dix Sporting Classic Coming to the Lyceum

A fight film that is reputed to have all the punch of the real thing, plus the well-known Dix brand of humor, comes Wednesday to the Lyceum theatre when "Knockout Reilly" opens for a three day run.

Adapted from a story by Albert Payson Terhune, "Knockout Reilly," stars Dix as a young steel puddler who after many vicissitudes attains to a pugilistic championship.

If You Want Thrills and Laughs—See "Rookies" at the Lyceum

If you want to laugh and thrill alternately a good place to do both is at the Lyceum theatre, where "Rookies," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy is now being shown. The picture, which was made with the cooperation of the government, is laid against a background of life at one of Uncle Sam's military training camps for civilians. "Rookies" is rated as the best comedy of the year—and it is that.

How Thin Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days

Ask H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy, Economy Drug Co. or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine—60 tablets—60 cents. The "just as good" imitations aren't good enough for you. —Adv.

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant to take that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

OUR FRIEND, THE GAME WARDEN

THE old conception of a game warden as a man who should be feared and his work obstructed in every way possible is fast giving way and sportsmen are coming to recognize him as a friend.

It is not strange that there was opposition to the activities of the game warden in the early days. Men had been used to hunting at all seasons of the year, and to them, legislation restrictions concerning the taking of game and fish was an encroachment on their personal rights. They did not think that there would ever be a time when game and fish would not be plentiful. In reality, they thought very little of the future along that particular line. Their big job was to tame the country and they were taming with an iron hand.

However, as the years passed by and the shortage of game and fish became more apparent, sportsmen began to realize that the game warden was in reality a friend. They discovered that the laws which he was trying to enforce had been passed for their own protection and that without them the attractions of field and stream would soon be gone. They also discovered that the game warden was a very human fellow and that he did not intend to persecute anybody. They learned that the game warden and the game and fish department, in a scientific way was endeavoring to make hunting and fishing better. The game wardens discovered that they could get a tremendous amount of co-operation from the sportsmen. They also learned that sportsmen were anxious to introduce new game into the state and again the two elements were able to work together. The sportsman introduced the game and the wardens protected it after it was here. Thus, as the result of this co-operation, the citizens of the state were afforded sport that they never enjoyed before.

The game warden is the friend of every citizen. His sole duty is to try to make conditions such that there will be more fish and game. Through his activities the outdoors should become more interesting. He is not trying to deprive any citizen of anything. He is merely protecting the property that belongs to all of us—the creatures of the wild. He should have our co-operation and help every time he needs it.—Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

"GLAD HANDING" THE TOURISTS

"GLAD HANDING" the tourists is a commendable undertaking, but it takes a large force of volunteers to make it continuous. The undertaking, sponsored this year by the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, Brainerd Lions club, Brainerd Rotary and Mayor Frank E. Little, worked successfully the limited time it was in operation.

Friday saw the outriders of the tourist army, anxious to enjoy its two days of vacation, put in their appearance at Brainerd.

Saturday and Sunday the flood burst. George Sweet, on from 1 to 3 P. M. Saturday, kept tab of his assignment, and distributed literature to 56 cars, answered nine requests for information satisfactorily and counted the cars of foreign habitat. There were cars from Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, California, North Dakota, Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Iowa.

After Mr. Sweet finished his task Saturday afternoon, it was most difficult to get any more volunteers, although club secretaries were busy telephoning. The plan had been to continue "glad handing" and distributing literature until 7 P. M.

Sunday forenoon B. L. Mathiesen talked to over 150 cars or 460 people and was certainly kept busy. In the afternoon Ed Gruenhagen kept vigil at Sixth and Laurel streets, and was also a busy man. All appreciated the courtesies paid them, and were glad to get advice on roads, their condition and location, etc.

It is not a difficult matter to gain the necessary literature and the Chamber of Commerce has a large supply of maps of the Brainerd Lake Region. The most difficult thing is to get the volunteers enrolled who can devote an hour or two to the distribution of the liaterature and answering questions of tourists.

County Commissioner Frank Lowey was a mine of information, for only recently he had made a tour of the county road system. Henry I. Cohen, R. R. Gould, D. C. Gray, and others at the task, were also most efficient.

MORE PEOPLE FISH THIS YEAR

IT is peculiar but nevertheless a fact that more people are fishing this season than any year before and in spite of the license money they must pay into the state before given a permit to fish. It just goes to show that advertising pays. If the folks had not been reminded of fishing as they were through the matter of licenses it is doubtful if they would have planned to fish at all this year. They read about the 50c license fee and in reading about it they read of fishing and learned that Minnesota had such a great sport. Following this they went looking for a license and when they had that they of course must go fishing and there we have more fishermen this season than ever before.

Fishing is a great sport and this grand and glorious state of ours excels all others in its lakes and rivers. We who live here in its midst are most apt to overlook our resources and the matter of fishing licenses proves it to the most skeptical.—Verndale Sun.

REAL advertising, by its persistency, starts the subconscious mind to working. For instance you know what kodak you think of, when the subject of kodaks engrosses you. The same way with maple syrup, safety razors, baking powder, chewing gum, tires, cars, gasoline, suspenders, clothes, etc., etc. It's the advertised kind that stick in your memory. As to the unadvertised brands, you find them if you have the time to inventory stocks.

THE transient canvasser does the town little good. "If he wants to do business in the town let him locate here, pay taxes and help support our churches and schools," says the Mille Lacs County Times.

THE user of any telephone can contribute to ease of operation by being careful how he answers a call. Do not attack your telephone as though resenting the call and considering it a raid on your seclusion. Lift the receiver kindly and nicely from the hook. Any other movement gets a reflection of your motion in the ear of the party calling you.

JUNE 14th is Flag Day but the slogan of the United States Flag Association, "Honor the Flag and Uphold Its Ideals", should be carried out every day of every month of the year, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

Brainerd 25 Years Ago

The concert given by the Brainerd Marine band last night in Gardner hall assisted by local musical artists was one of the best that has been given for some time. The hall never held a larger audience than last night and every number on the very excellent program was encored heartily.

F. E. Stout left last night for Portland, Ore., where he will act as best man at the wedding of his brother, J. Harold Stout.

J. A. Carp of the East hotel and Miss Mary Kreglow were married by Judge Blewitt last night.

It will be remembered that the city council at its last meeting decided to allow the matter of purchasing meters for the city to be left in the hands of the purchasing committee. This was on motion done. The committee met last night and decided to order the Wessington meters and as a representative of that concern happened to be in the city the contract was closed at once. It will be a "hurry up" order and they will be shipped at once.

Last night there was quite an enthusiastic meeting of the retail grocers of the city which had been called by Secretary Fred Mason of the Retail Grocers Association of St. Paul. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of organizing an association of the grocerymen of this city. This was done, the organization being perfected by the election of the following officers: President Con O'Brien, Vice President J. A. Arnold and Secretary Howard Paine.

Interesting Experiments

We did not believe, until we saw it tried, that a piece of writing paper, bent in basin shape, filled with water and held in the flame of a candle, will not burn, while the water will boil. Try it and see. You might also bend the edges of a piece of cardboard so as to make a small tray; cover the tray with shot and hold over a lamp. The shot will melt but the cardboard will not burn.—Farm Journal.

After passing the Duke of Connaught, the troops wheeled and entered the courtyard of the palace. Almost simultaneously the crowd began cheering for Lindbergh who emerged just then. Cheering crowds lined the entire route of a quarter of a mile to St. James Palace.

Lindbergh had seen the earlier part of the rehearsal of trooping the color in the Horse Guards' parade. With Premier and Mrs. Baldwin, Lindbergh watched from the back wall of No. 10 Downing Street which overlooks the parade. The troops then marched to Buckingham Palace headed by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught who rode up the Mall together. Wales then returned to St. James Palace to receive Lindbergh.

Lindbergh told newspapermen he had definitely cancelled his proposed trip to Sweden, and said that when he left London he would fly to Paris and embark from France for America.

Lindbergh will be the guest of Lord Lonsdale at the derby tomorrow.

WALTER JOHNSON SHUTS OUT BOSTON

VETERAN ALLOWS BOSTON RED SOX ONLY THREE HITS

PITCHES HIS 113TH SHUTOUT IN INAUGURAL APPEARANCE

JOHNSON EARLY IN SEASON SUFFERED A BROKEN ANKLE

Yesterday's hero—Walter Johnson, the veteran pitcher who has been a hero almost a score of years, who permitted the Boston Red Sox only three hits and pitched his 113th shutout in the inaugural appearance of the season.

Johnson was injured shortly before the opening of the season and was forced out of the game with a broken ankle. A week ago he pitched against Baltimore in an exhibition game and announced he was ready.

Yesterday the "Big Train" was started in the first game. There were three hits by Boston players. Four men got to first base, two got to second and one got to third base. None scored. Washington won the opener 3-0 and then took the second one, 13-5.

Jimmy Cooney of the Chicago Cubs doesn't fall far behind Johnson in the matter of being yesterday's hero. The Chicago shortstop took a drive from Paul Waner of the Pirates in the first game of the duble bill. He stepped on second, retiring Lloyd Waner, and then chased down first base to tag out Barnhart, completing an unassisted triple play. The Cubs incidentally won that tilt, which went 10 innings, 7-6. In the second game, which also went 10 innings, the Pirates nosed out a 6-5 count.

Alphonse Thomas, young pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, continued to pitch good baseball. He won his ninth victory of the season yesterday when he pitched the Sox to a 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the second game of a double header. The Browns won the first game, 11-3.

Babe Ruth got his fourteenth home run. Lefty Groves struck out 11 men. The Athletics played the second game under protest when Cobb was refused a chance to score following a foul catch. These were the highlights of the twin bill in which the Macks won the first game from New York, 9-8, and dropped the second one, 6-4.

The Brooklyn Robins won a twin bill from the Boston Braves, 5-2 and 5-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals advanced to third place in the National League by virtue of a twin victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Haines pitched the champions to the opening victory, 6-3, while Sherdel won the second, 3-1.

The Giants and Philadelphia divided the two holiday games, New York winning the first, 14-10, and Philadelphia taking the second, 1-0. Mitchell held the Giants to three hits in the second game.

Cleveland won the opening game from Detroit, 9-8, but dropped the second, 11-3.

CALLAHAN - MEYERS BATTLE

WORLD'S JUNIOR WELTERWEIGHT TITLE AT STAKE

MUSHY CALLAHAN, CHAMPION, OPPOSED BY IDAHO CHALLENGER

IN FIRST BOUT MYERS WON THE DECISION—TITLE WAS NOT AT STAKE

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, May 31.—Two hard hitting and clever boxers will meet tonight with the world's junior welterweight title at stake.

Mushy Callahan, the champion, will be opposed by Spug Myers, Idaho challenger. It is the second meeting between the two. In the first bout Myers won the decision although the title was not at stake.

Although tonight's bout is a championship affair it has far more significance. The winner probably will have a chance at the lightweight title, Promoter Jim Mullen announced.

Both Myers and Callahan say they are able to make the lightweight limit without difficulty and Mullen said he would match the winner with Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion provided of course that Mondell can be induced to risk his title.

Odds of 2-1 favoring the champion were quoted this morning through the loop betting district. Boxing experts pointed out that Callahan had a clever left hand and a vicious right cross whereas Myers is just a two fisted fighter.

Tonight's show will be the first of the outdoor boxing affairs for the Chicago season. Mullen is planning several championship fights among the smaller boxers for the summer program.

BASEBALL'S BIG FOUR

Babe Ruth celebrated Memorial Day by hitting his fourteenth home run, a double and two singles in nine times at bat.

Hornsby had two singles in five times at bat.

Though he scored four runs, Ty Cobb could get but one single in six attempts.

Speaker also had a meagre day with two singles in seven trips.

Averages:

Cobb	140	53	.379	1000	1
Hornsby	141	52	.369	.970	8

They don't come any better

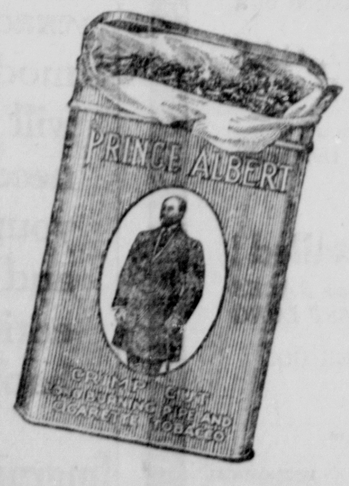

I DIDN'T know it, but Prince Albert was just the tobacco I had been looking for all the time. I hate to think of the time we lost getting together. But let that go. We're all set now—me and the pipe and P.A. We've been pals from the very first puff.

I had a hunch I was going to like P.A. the minute I got that breath of Nature's noblest gift to pipe-smokers. What a treat! It made me think of a hike through the woods, when the trees and the vines are in full leaf. I found the taste "as advertised" by the aroma.

Cool as a customs-inspector. Sweet as the thought you have nothing to hide. Mild as a milk-shake, yet with that full-bodied flavor that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. That's Prince Albert, Fellows. They don't come any better.

No matter how set you appear to be on a smoke-program, try P.A. I give you my word, no other tobacco that ever came down the pike ever brought so much downright satisfaction out of a pipe. "That fellow knew his groceries." you'll say, or words to that effect.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Jimmy Cooney of the Chicago Cubs doesn't fall far behind Johnson in the matter of being yesterday's hero. The Chicago shortstop took a drive from Paul Waner of the Pirates in the first game of the duble bill. He stepped on second, retiring Lloyd Waner, and then chased down first base to tag out Barnhart, completing an unassisted triple play. The Cubs incidentally won that tilt, which went 10 innings, 7-6. In the second game, which also went 10 innings, the Pirates nosed out a 6-5 count.

Alphonse Thomas, young pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, continued to pitch good baseball. He won his ninth victory of the season yesterday when he pitched the Sox to a 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the second game of a double header. The Browns won the first game, 11-3.

Babe Ruth got his fourteenth home run. Lefty Groves struck out 11 men. The Athletics played the second game under protest when Cobb was refused a chance to score following a foul catch. These were the highlights of the twin bill in which the Macks won the first game from New York, 9-8, and dropped the second one, 6-4.

The Brooklyn Robins won a twin bill from the Boston Braves, 5-2 and 3-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals advanced to third place in the National League by virtue of a twin victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Haines pitched the champions to the opening victory, 6-3, while Sherdel won the second, 3-1.

The Giants and Philadelphia divided the two holiday games, New York winning the first, 14-10, and Philadelphia taking the second, 1-0. Mitchell held the Giants to three hits in the second game.

Cleveland won the opening game from Detroit, 9-8, but dropped the second, 11-3.

CALLAHAN - MEYERS BATTLE

WORLD'S JUNIOR WELTERWEIGHT TITLE AT STAKE

MUSHY CALLAHAN, CHAMPION, OPPOSED BY IDAHO CHALLENGER

IN FIRST BOUT MYERS WON THE DECISION—TITLE WAS NOT AT STAKE

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, May 31.—Two hard hitting and clever boxers will meet tonight with the world's junior welterweight title at stake.

Mushy Callahan, the champion, will be opposed by Spug Myers, Idaho challenger. It is the second meeting between the two. In the first bout Myers won the decision although the title was not at stake.

Although tonight's bout is a championship affair it has far more significance. The winner probably will have a chance at the lightweight title, Promoter Jim Mullen announced.

Both Myers and Callahan say they are able to make the lightweight limit without difficulty and Mullen said he would match the winner with Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion provided of course that Mondell can be induced to risk his title.

Odds of 2-1 favoring the champion were quoted this morning through the loop betting district. Boxing experts pointed out that Callahan had a clever left hand and a vicious right cross whereas Myers is just a two fisted fighter.

Tonight's show will be the first of the outdoor boxing affairs for the Chicago season. Mullen is planning several championship fights among the smaller boxers for the summer program.

BASEBALL'S BIG FOUR

Babe Ruth celebrated Memorial Day by hitting his fourteenth home run, a double and two singles in nine times at bat.

Hornsby had two singles in five times at bat.

Though he scored four runs, Ty Cobb could get but one single in six attempts.

Speaker also had a meagre day with two singles in seven trips.

Averages:

	AB	H	Pct	Fielding	Home Runs
Cobb	140	53	.379	1000	1
Hornsby	141	52	.369	.970	8
Ruth	145	50	.345	.966	14

They don't come any better

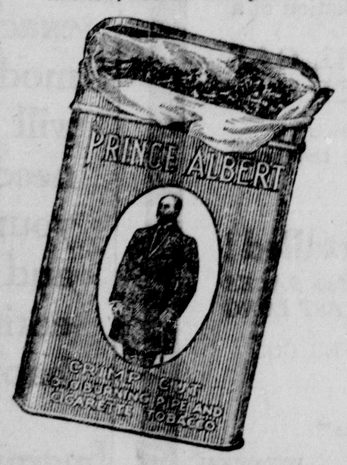

I DIDN'T know it, but Prince Albert was just the tobacco I had been looking for all the time. I hate to think of the time we lost getting together. But let that go. We're all set now—me and the pipe and P.A. We've been pals from the very first puff.

I had a hunch I was going to like P.A. the minute I got that breath of Nature's noblest gift to pipe-smokers. What a treat! It made me think of a hike through the woods, when the trees and the vines are in full leaf. I found the taste "as advertised" by the aroma.

Cool as a customs-inspector. Sweet as the thought you have nothing to hide. Mild as a milk-shake, yet with that full-bodied flavor that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. That's Prince Albert, Fellows. They don't come any better.

No matter how set you appear to be on a smoke-program, try P.A. I give you my word, no other tobacco that ever came down the pike ever brought so much downright satisfaction out of a pipe. "That fellow knew his groceries," you'll say, or words to that effect.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

LIFE STORY OF LINDBERGH WHO FLEW TO FAME

HIS GREATEST AVERSION IS HIS OWN CURLY HAIR

IN COLLEGE HE LIKED TO MAKE EXPERIMENTS IN THE LABORATORIES

(The life story of Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew to fame in 34 hours)

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

Chapter One

Charles A. Lindbergh's greatest aversion is his own curly blonde hair.

He likes French pastry well enough to ask an ambassador for a second helping, but he likes pie better.

As a boy he played with the other kids and in college he liked to make experiments in the laboratories but disliked to write up his notes, so he didn't write them.

Which are just some of the things which go to show that Charles A. Lindbergh is no superman different from other people but is just a normal American youth who had three outstanding characteristics, namely complete mastery of himself, direction in life, and great courage.

Before going a bit behind the scenes he may seem only an amazing adventurer. You believe he must be a genius and that Charlie Lindbergh just happened to be born blessed with luck and a darling of circumstance.

But if when one is amazed at his splendid tact shown in a speech of 10 words which sends a gathering of French statesmen and citizens into wild enthusiasm, it is recalled that his father was a power to be met in politics for 20 years and his grandfather sat in the parliament in Sweden, it is realized that his heredity is one which points to such skill.

When one reads of his exquisite courage, it can be recalled that his grandfather lost his right arm hewing at the trees to clear his homestead in the Minnesota forests and a few months later was back wielding in his left hand his great axe once more.

And it was his own father, who, because he was busy, summoned a friend to an operating room where surgeons were operating upon him, and for an hour while the surgeons worked, without an anaesthetic, talked politics and then feared his friend, not himself, had suffered.

When one reads of his liking for mechanics and desire for attempting that which is new, it is recalled that his maternal grandfather, Dr. C. H. Land, was an inventor, and was a pioneer of modern dentistry.

Thus courage, the steadfast purpose and the simplicity of Charles Lindbergh's great feat of flying the Atlantic can be traced back through years and years. One finds that the blood of the Norsemen in him is mixed with the blood of the Crusaders of the England of King Richard the Lion Hearted's day. And those are the bloods of courage, of simple thought and living, and of high adventure.

It was February 4, 1902, that this lad was born, in a comfortable home in Detroit, Michigan. His mother was Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh and his father, Charles A. Lindbergh, lawyer and later a member of congress.

His father was born in Sweden, but in 1860 he had come with his own father to Sauk Center, Minnesota. There the elder Lindbergh had set himself to the task of building a pioneer home. He had felled the trees and built a log cabin, 12 feet by 16 feet, and in it the father of Charlie Lindbergh played through his early childhood.

There came an incident, typical of the history of this family. One day the elder Lindbergh fell across a saw. His right arm was all but severed. It was 60 miles to the home of the nearest doctor. Neighbors, notably the Rev. C. S. Harrison of York, Neb., who told of the incident, gave him what care they could. It was three days before the doctor arrived. The arm was amputated and a few months later the Rev. Harrison records that the elder Lindbergh was back hewing away at the forests, swinging an axe with his left arm—not to be defeated in his purpose.

As to Lindbergh's father, much is written in contemporary history. He spent his boyhood attending common schools and gave much time to hunting, fishing and life in the open.

In 1881 he entered Grove Lake Academy, Minn., and in 1887 he was graduated from the University of Michigan and began the practice of law.

He rode into congress in 1906 on the crest of the wave of trustbusting. He threw himself into the fight to unseat "Uncle Joe" Cannon from the speakership and for the next ten years was known as an insurgent and a progressive in congress. In 1916 he was defeated for re-election and two years later he joined the Nonpartisan League movement in Minnesota, becoming its candidate for governor. He lost by a narrow margin.

In 1923 he sought the governorship again. This time Charles had learned to fly and he carried his father from town to town by airplane as the campaign became spirited.

Again Lindbergh was defeated. In 1924 Congressman Lindbergh died from a long standing malady and Charlie scattered his father's ashes from an airplane over the farm where his boyhood had been spent.

The Pair of Pink Sapphires

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

JOAN gazed wistfully down at the lovely pink sapphire that had plighted the troth of the two parents whom she had loved better than anyone else in life.

"If I could only find a mate for you," she often mused, "it would be so sweet to have the two set together, one for mother and one for dad. But alas, I'm afraid you're too perfect to have a mate."

Joan had never quite given up hope that one day she would find another pink sapphire—the very twin to her own.

Then, one day during a desultory walk, she went into a jeweler's shop.

When Joan pulled off her glove and showed the jeweler the pink sapphire the young man cast an apprehensive glance at his safe, then, looking at the wide-open eyes of the girl, smiled.

"The sight of that stone startled me," he said. "I have its mate in my safe. I didn't think there were two such stones."

"Oh—at last!" exclaimed Joan in anticipation of purchasing the gem, "I have looked for almost three years for one like mine."

"Oh, but this is not for sale. A gentleman brought it in to me some time ago to keep for him. He lives in lodgings and felt it would be safer. It's a family heirloom and highly treasured."

"Could I just have one peep at it?" Joan asked.

"Certainly," responded the relieved young man, "I would like to see the two matchless stones together myself." He turned to his safe and a moment later Joan was in raptures over the glorious pair of pink sapphires that seemed to have been created for the same setting.

"Isn't it wicked to separate them?" she expostulated. "Do you think anything would make that young man part with his?"

"I'm afraid not. I will, however, if you like, write to him and tell him the circumstances, but I don't think there's a chance. He seemed to prize this stone in the same way you do yours. But I'll do my best," he assured her.

The letter he got back was not encouraging as Vale Godfrey hinted that the stone was already promised to some one.

"I will be in the shop Thursday," he wrote, "and should like to see the young lady, but do not want to meet her. I'll just be standing about. I have a curiosity to see the person who owns the other stone."

So on Thursday, Joan, looking unusually sweet in a pale orchid frock with wide hat of the same shade, came to the shop, in answer to a note from the jeweler.

Even if Godfrey had seen her in passing he would have wanted a second and more lengthy look. He was glad that he had decided to have a look at this young lady and wished now he had not been so definite about meeting her—or rather not meeting her.

"I'm sorry," said the clerk and meant what he said, "but my client cannot part with the stone. He informs me that it is in a way already—well—I suppose it is to be a betrothal ring."

"I fancy so," sighed Joan. "You see, that is why I prize mine so highly. It was my father's betrothal gift to my mother, and I wanted to set the two together. It is never off my finger—I loved them very dearly." She turned to go, after thanking the clerk for all his trouble, and felt as she did so that it would be her last quest for the twin stone.

Her eyes rested for a moment on the young man who was standing beside the counter and had apparently heard all the conversation.

She would have moved out of the shop in another moment, but swiftly the young stranger approached her.

"Excuse me," he apologized for addressing her, "but I am the owner of the pink sapphire which you want so much. If you will waive ceremony and come for a cup of tea with me I will tell you the story of it."

Joan did not hesitate a moment. Godfrey was the type of man that almost any girl would trust.

"I want to give you my stone," said Godfrey, and his face was a bit white. "My mother gave it to me as a scarf pin, but asked me to give it to the girl whom I could love, even as she and dad loved one another."

"But—" gasped Joan. "You don't even know me."

"I know that," said Godfrey still with that intense whiteness, "but nothing alters the fact that no girl in all my experience has struck deep into my heart with lightning swiftness—as you have. I know I shall be deeply and finally in love with you, and I ask you to take this stone. My mother did not say that my love must be returned—I was to give it to the girl I could love."

"Then—then you don't want any—return?" Joan looked a bit wistful because it was as if the two pink sapphires had conspired to get these two together. It was just fate.

Godfrey smiled. "I didn't say that."

And when the two sapphires were set in their exquisite band and changed from Joan's right hand to her left there was not the slightest doubt that their rich pink deepened and glowed in the joy of another great love.

YOUTH INSPIRED BY GIANTS OF ORATORY

Forties Saw Golden Age of College Debate.

Dr. H. de W. Fuller writes in N. Y. U. Alumnus:

The prominence of college debating in the second quarter of the last century and the honor which attached to it have since been somewhat overshadowed in this country. In the United States the era of 1830, as Professor Sihler points out, "may in some respects be called the golden age of American oratory, when Webster, Clay and Calhoun, Benton and Everett, shone as stars of the first magnitude in the firmament of national life." It was natural that the young men at New York university should have turned their thought to ways and means of exercising their own tongues.

The Euclelan society, which still persists at University Heights, was in full existence in June, 1833. It was the successor of the Adelphic society, which had blossomed forth in February of that year, but which had "gone broke" because of an ambitious attempt to publish a monthly magazine. Both societies had been preceded by the Philomathean society. Philomathean and Euclelan got together once in a while, but the rivalry was intense, and led to gibes back and forth.

Some of the questions debated during the first year were the following: "Ought honor or wealth to be most sought after by man?" "Is Andrew Jackson or Henry Clay most fit for the office of President of the United States?" "Is the fear of punishment or the expectation of reward the greater incentive to industry?" They wisely interspersed serious with humorous discussions. A debate on "Were the English justified in sending Napoleon Bonaparte to the island of St. Helena?" was followed by one on "When a pig is led to market, with a rope tied about his neck, the other end of which is held by a man, is the pig led by the rope or by the man?"

Of course the old standby was found among their discussions, "Are all minds originally equal?" Considering an idea of some of the most prominent founders of New York university—to wit, that the study of Latin and Greek should not receive undue emphasis—it is interesting to note that the students decided the following question in the affirmative: "Whether the study of the dead languages is of use or not to those who do not intend to be professional persons."

Even at this time (January, 1834), the subject of slavery was receiving the attention of the students. They asked the question, "Would immediate emancipation of slaves in the United States be justifiable?" and decided in the negative. Even then, too, politics was politics to many a mind, for the students debated the question "Is political ambition consistent with moral integrity?"

Surgical Triumph

A marvel of surgery has been performed in South Africa. Nine years ago a Rand man developed a pain in the leg, which was diagnosed as due to gangrene. Since then he suffered agony, being unable to walk, as he refused to have the limb amputated, which, doctors declared, was the only cure. Recently he was informed that gangrene had been cured twice in history without amputation. As local surgeons were unaware of the method involved, the patient cabled to a Russian doctor in Leningrad. Information received from the doctor by cable enabled a Johannesburg surgeon to perform the necessary operation. The patient now has the use of all his limbs.

"Oh, but this is not for sale. A gentleman brought it in to me some time ago to keep for him. He lives in lodgings and felt it would be safer. It's a family heirloom and highly treasured."

"Could I just have one peep at it?" Joan asked.

"Certainly," responded the relieved young man, "I would like to see the two matchless stones together myself." He turned to his safe and a moment later Joan was in raptures over the glorious pair of pink sapphires that seemed to have been created for the same setting.

"Isn't it wicked to separate them?" she expostulated. "Do you think anything would make that young man part with his?"

"I'm afraid not. I will, however, if you like, write to him and tell him the circumstances, but I don't think there's a chance. He seemed to prize this stone in the same way you do yours. But I'll do my best," he assured her.

The letter he got back was not encouraging as Vale Godfrey hinted that the stone was already promised to some one.

"I will be in the shop Thursday," he wrote, "and should like to see the young lady, but do not want to meet her. I'll just be standing about. I have a curiosity to see the person who owns the other stone."

So on Thursday, Joan, looking unusually sweet in a pale orchid frock with wide hat of the same shade, came to the shop, in answer to a note from the jeweler.

Even if Godfrey had seen her in passing he would have wanted a second and more lengthy look. He was glad that he had decided to have a look at this young lady and wished now he had not been so definite about meeting her—or rather not meeting her.

"I'm sorry," said the clerk and meant what he said, "but my client cannot part with the stone. He informs me that it is in a way already—well—I suppose it is to be a betrothal ring."

"I fancy so," sighed Joan. "You see, that is why I prize mine so highly. It was my father's betrothal gift to my mother, and I wanted to set the two together. It is never off my finger—I loved them very dearly." She turned to go, after thanking the clerk for all his trouble, and felt as she did so that it would be her last quest for the twin stone.

Her eyes rested for a moment on the young man who was standing beside the counter and had apparently heard all the conversation.

She would have moved out of the shop in another moment, but swiftly the young stranger approached her.

"Excuse me," he apologized for addressing her, "but I am the owner of the pink sapphire which you want so much. If you will waive ceremony and come for a cup of tea with me I will tell you the story of it."

Joan did not hesitate a moment. Godfrey was the type of man that almost any girl would trust.

"I want to give you my stone," said Godfrey, and his face was a bit white. "My mother gave it to me as a scarf pin, but asked me to give it to the girl whom I could love, even as she and dad loved one another."

"But—" gasped Joan. "You don't even know me."

"I know that," said Godfrey still with that intense whiteness, "but nothing alters the fact that no girl in all my experience has struck deep into my heart with lightning swiftness—as you have. I know I shall be deeply and finally in love with you, and I ask you to take this stone. My mother did not say that my love must be returned—I was to give it to the girl I could love."

"Then—then you don't want any—return?" Joan looked a bit wistful because it was as if the two pink sapphires had conspired to get these two together. It was just fate.

Godfrey smiled. "I didn't say that."

And when the two sapphires were set in their exquisite band and changed from Joan's right hand to her left there was not the slightest doubt that their rich pink deepened and glowed in the joy of another great love.

YOUTH INSPIRED BY GIANTS OF ORATORY

Forties Saw Golden Age of College Debate.

Dr. H. de W. Fuller writes in N. Y. U. Alumnus:

The prominence of college debating in the second quarter of the last century and the honor which attached to it have since been somewhat overshadowed in this country. In the United States the era of 1830, as Professor Sihler points out, "may in some respects be called the golden age of American oratory, when Webster, Clay and Calhoun, Benton and Everett, shone as stars of the first magnitude in the firmament of national life." It was natural that the young men at New York university should have turned their thought to ways and means of exercising their own tongues.

The Eucleian society, which still persists at University Heights, was in full existence in June, 1833. It was the successor of the Adelphic society, which had blossomed forth in February of that year, but which had "gone broke" because of an ambitious attempt to publish a monthly magazine. Both societies had been preceded by the Philomathean society. Philomathean and Eucleian got together once in a while, but the rivalry was intense, and led to gibes back and forth.

Some of the questions debated during the first year were the following: "Ought honor or wealth to be most sought after by man?" "Is Andrew Jackson or Henry Clay most fit for the office of President of the United States?" "Is the fear of punishment or the expectation of reward the greater incentive to industry?" They wisely interspersed serious with humorous discussions. A debate on "Were the English justified in sending Napoleon Bonaparte to the island of St. Helena?" was followed by one on "When a pig is led to market, with a rope tied about his neck, the other end of which is held by a man, is the pig led by the rope or by the man?"

Of course the old standby was found among their discussions, "Are all minds originally equal?" Considering an idea of some of the most prominent founders of New York university—to wit, that the study of Latin and Greek should not receive undue emphasis—it is interesting to note that the students decided the following question in the affirmative: "Whether the study of the dead languages is of use or not to those who do not intend to be professional persons."

Even at this time (January, 1834), the subject of slavery was receiving the attention of the students. They asked the question, "W[illegible]mediate emancipation of slaves in the United States be justifiable?" and decided in the negative. Even then, too, politics was politics to many a mind, for the students debated the question "Is political ambition consistent with moral integrity?"

Surgical Triumph

A marvel of surgery has been performed in South Africa. Nine years ago a Rand man developed a pain in the leg, which was diagnosed as due to gangrene. Since then he suffered agony, being unable to walk, as he refused to have the limb amputated, which, doctors declared, was the only cure. Recently he was informed that gangrene had been cured twice in history without amputation. As local surgeons were unaware of the method involved, the patient cabled to a Russian doctor in Leningrad. Information received from the doctor by cable enabled a Johannesburg surgeon to perform the necessary operation. The patient now has the use of all his limbs.

For the past several weeks, the Home Oil Company stations and dealers without any mention of the change, have been dispensing a new grade of gasoline said Mr. Mraz, local manager. Motorists have been quick to notice the difference in the performance of their motors.

This is one of the few companies that own and control its own production, fields, pipe lines, refineries, tank cars, bulk and service stations and due to their large distribution throughout the Middle West, a constant supply of the never-varying quality of Deep Rock gasoline is always available. The company will start a series of advertising in the Dispatch soon to better acquaint the public with the new product.

TOURIST SEASON OFFICIALLY OPENS

Thousands Take Advantage of Three Day Holiday to Visit Lake Region

FEW ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Car Smashed on Highway No. 19; Minneapolis Lady is Fish Hook Victim

In spite of rainy weather in the Twin Cities Saturday, tourists who longed for the rest of the Brainerd Lake region took a chance that the weather in Crow Wing county would be to their advantage, with the result that over the week end thousands of tourists spent the three day holiday in this territory. The weather except for a slight rain Sunday night was good holiday climate.

Resorts throughout the district reported favorable patronage. Many ardent enthusiasts of golf played the course at the Brainerd Country club, Breezy Point lodge, and at the Harrison and Start resort.

At Breezy Point lodge the Saturday opening was largely attended, and the dinner parties included many guests from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and Brainerd. In golf play Captain Roscoe Fawcett equalled the course record and at the traps Captain William H. Fawcett showed the excellent from evident when some seasons past he was doubles champion.

At Harrison and Start Gull Lake resort the greens were admired by many visitors, guests being shown about the course by Walter Frampton. Thousands of dollars have been spent on this course.

Thousands of holiday people enjoyed the week end at Mille Lacs lake.

Highway No. 19 was travelled the most, a steady stream of cars being in evidence throughout yesterday. All roads were in good condition for travel.

Very few accidents were reported over the week end. A Ford touring car turned over on Highway No. 19, four miles from the city last night about 11 o'clock but occupants escaped with slight injuries.

No accidents were reported from the county sheriff's department. The St. Joseph's hospital today also reported no ambulance cases over the week end from accidents.

A lady member of a fishing party of Minneapolis at Mille Lacs lake was reported to have been seriously injured when a member of the party while casting accidentally sent the hook into the lady's forehead. She was immediately rushed to Minneapolis where an operation was necessary to remove the hook. The name of the party is unknown.

Not Named From "Weed"

Annual Class Day Exercises Precede Honor and Dignity of Commencement

PREDICT FUTURE CAREERS

No Reading of Prophecy, Seniors to Forecast Their Future

Preceding the honors and dignity of commencement on Saturday, the Seniors make merry tonight in their annual class day exercises, when in humorous vein they predict the future of the members of the class.

This year, instead of reading the prophecy, the Seniors will themselves depict their future. Everyone will have an opportuinty to see what he is and what he is doing. There will be music and singing and dramatics, the class will and history will be read, and the senior memorial presented.

It is hoped that for this final program in the high school a large attendance will be present.

Electric Insect

A strange phenomenon of nature is an electric caterpillar, found in Nigeria, which feeds on mistletoe flowers. A tingling sensation, distinctly resembling an electric shock, was felt by a collector while handling them, although the insects had no bristles or other protrusions that would cause irritation.

Important Invention

On March 10, 1849, a patent for cut-off and valve for steam engines was granted to Seth Boyden, the inventor. This was one of the most important of all inventions in the development of the steam engine.

Fish's Many Names

A sea trout has various names in different parts of the world. In Devon and Cornwall it is always a peal; in Ireland it is a white trout. In Scotland, finnock, herling, and whitling are names given to the young sea trout, and another common name for this fish is salmon trout.

Woman Carries 112 Miles

Takes 333 Silk Worms to Make Enough Cocoons to Supply Sufficient Tiny Threads for Pair of Stockings

The smartly dressed woman who trips along the boulevards, or the co-ed flitting about the campus, probably does not realize she is carrying one hundred and twelve miles of silk along with her in the form of a pair of chiffon hose. This astonishing mileage has been worked out by the Phoenix Research Bureau, which adds that it takes 333 silk worms, consuming about thirty pounds of mulberry leaves, to make the cocoons from which enough silk filaments, or tiny silk threads, are taken to make a single pair of chiffon hose.

Most of this silk comes from Japan and China, and about a tenth of it from Italy. Some attempts have been made to produce silk in this country, notably in Louisiana, Kentucky and California, but they have not so far affected imports to any great extent.

Phoenix hose stand for the best in hosiery—many weights in the newest shades.

BRAINERD HONORS LIVING AND DEAD

Patriotic Organizations and Citizens Pay Tribute to Heroes of Three Wars

FLAGS IN ABUNDANCE

Sacred Exercises Held at Evergreen Cemetery; Flowers Bank Graves

Brainerd paid tribute to living and dead heroes of three wars in fitting exercises yesterday in accordance with the time honored custom of Memorial day.

The abundance of flags and bunting in the streets, business establishments and residents proclaimed the honor accorded the day and the living veterans while flowers in profuse array decorated the graves of the departed at the Evergreen cemetery.

Favorable weather aided in the presentation of one of the finest Memorial day programs Brainerd has ever witnessed which was taken part in by patriotic organizations and thousands of citizens.

The parade in the downtown section of the city marked the opening formalities which concluded with reverent observance to the dead at the Evergreen cemetery.

Previous to the parade a brief ceremonial was held at the Mississippi river bridge on West Laurel street attended by the color squad, drum corps, chaplain, at which time a wreath was deposited on the waters in memory of war heroes who lost their lives at sea.

The parade lined up on Seventh street between Laurel and Oak. There were cars for the G. A. R., Spanish War, and World war veterans while other veterans marched in the parade. William V. Turcotte was marshal of the parade.

Heading the parade were the colors, followed by the firing squad, the Brainerd city band, autos for G. A. R., Circles, Relief Corps and speakers; the drum corps of the American Legion, ex-service men of the World War, Spanish War Veterans, Boy Scouts, high school representatives, Brainerd boys band, and grade and Parochial school representatives.

In the Boy Scouts inspection, the Harrison P. T. A. Troop No. 4 won the Peterson Clothing Co. trophy for the best uniformed scout troop in the Memorial day parade. This troop is the newest in the city. The trophy was awarded at the next meeting of the troop on Wednesday evening. O. F. Erickson is scoutmaster, L. M. TOURIST SEASON OFFICIALLY OPENS

FEW ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Car Smashed on Highway No. 19; Minneapolis Lady is Fish Hook Victim

In spite of rainy weather in the Twin Cities Saturday, tourists who longed for the rest of the Brainerd Lake region took a chance that the weather in Crow Wing county would be to their advantage, with the result that over the week end thousands of tourists spent the three day holiday in this territory. The weather except for a slight rain Sunday night was good holiday climate.

Resorts throughout the district reported favorable patronage. Many ardent enthusiasts of golf played the course at the Brainerd Country club, Breezy Point lodge, and at the Harrison and Start resort.

At Breezy Point lodge the Saturday opening was largely attended, and the dinner parties included many guests from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and Brainerd. In golf play Captain Roscoe Fawcett equalled the course record and at the traps Captain William H. Fawcett showed the excellent from evident when some seasons past he was doubles champion.

At Harrison and Start Gull Lake resort the greens were admired by many visitors, guests being shown about the course by Walter Frampton. Thousands of dollars have been spent on this course.

Thousands of holiday people enjoyed the week end at Mille Lacs lake.

Highway No. 19 was travelled the most, a steady stream of cars being in evidence throughout yesterday. All roads were in good condition for travel.

Very few accidents were reported over the week end. A Ford touring car turned over on Highway No. 19, four miles from the city last night about 11 o'clock but occupants escaped with slight injuries.

No accidents were reported from the county sheriff's department. The St. Joseph's hospital today also reported no ambulance cases over the week end from accidents.

A lady member of a fishing party of Minneapolis at Mille Lacs lake was reported to have been seriously injured when a member of the party while casting accidentally sent the hook into the lady's forehead. She was immediately rushed to Minneapolis where an operation was necessary to remove the hook. The name of the party is unknown.

Not Named From "Weed"

It is sometimes thought that Port Tobacco river took its name from tobacco, in which a thriving business was done on this river. It is said, however, that such is not the case—that the name came from a tribe of Indians who once lived in that vicinity, the Portobacks.

SENIORS MAKE MERRY TONIGHT

Annual Class Day Exercises Precede Honor and Dignity of Commencement

PREDICT FUTURE CAREERS

No Reading of Prophecy, Seniors to Forecast Their Future

Preceding the honors and dignity of commencement on Saturday, the Seniors make merry tonight in their annual class day exercises, when in humorous vein they predict the future of the members of the class.

This year, instead of reading the prophecy, the Seniors will themselves depict their future. Everyone will have an opportuinty to see what he is and what he is doing. There will be music and singing and dramatics, the class will and history will be read, and the senior memorial presented.

It is hoped that for this final program in the high school a large attendance will be present.

Electric Insect

A strange phenomenon of nature is an electric caterpillar, found in Nigeria, which feeds on mistletoe flowers. A tingling sensation, distinctly resembling an electric shock, was felt by a collector while handling them, although the insects had no bristles or other protrusions that would cause irritation.

Important Invention

On March 10, 1849, a patent for cut-off and valve for steam engines was granted to Seth Boyden, the inventor. This was one of the most important of all inventions in the development of the steam engine.

Fish's Many Names

A sea trout has various names in different parts of the world. In Devon and Cornwall it is always a peal; in Ireland it is a white trout. In Scotland, finnock, herling, and whitling are names given to the young sea trout, and another common name for this fish is salmon trout.

Woman Carries 112 Miles

Takes 333 Silk Worms to Make Enough Cocoons to Supply Sufficient Tiny Threads for Pair of Stockings

The smartly dressed woman who trips along the boulevards, or the co-ed flitting about the campus, probably does not realize she is carrying one hundred and twelve miles of silk along with her in the form of a pair of chiffon hose. This astonishing mileage has been worked out by the Phoenix Research Bureau, which adds that it takes 333 silk worms, consuming about thirty pounds of mulberry leaves, to make the cocoons from which enough silk filaments, or tiny silk threads, are taken to make a single pair of chiffon hose.

Most of this silk comes from Japan and China, and about a tenth of it from Italy. Some attempts have been made to produce silk in this country, notably in Louisiana, Kentucky and California, but they have not so far affected imports to any great extent.

Phoenix hose stand for the best in hosiery—many weights in the newest shades.

PROTECTION FOR THE WIFE

More and more men are coming to realize the wisdom of so arranging their affairs that in case of death their wives will not be handicapped by lack of knowledge of the husband's affairs. Such men also place their property in such shape that so far as possible and practicable, probate proceedings are not necessary.

Let the good wife share full knowledge of your business. Talk everything over with her, and then if you should be taken she will be well prepared to take care of herself and of the estate.

GEORGE SOUDERS WAS VICTOR IN 500 MILE RACE

HAS COMMANDING LEAD FOR 1927 CHAMPIONSHIP

JUST A YOUTH AND NOVICE ON THE INDIANAPOLIS TRACK

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31. — A figure heretofore unknown in the ranks of motor car race drivers, today has a commanding lead for the 1927 championship following his victor in the Indianapolis 500 mile sweepstake yesterday.

The driver is George Souders.

The winner of yesterday's 500 mile jaunt, which incidentally was made in an average speed of 97.54 miles per hour, is just a youth and almost a novice on the track. He is only 24 years old and it was the first big time race he had ever entered.

Souders is a former student at Purdue University and a quiet spoken chap. When the cars came pounding into the pits at the close of yesterday's race, a score of people rushed to Souders and wanted to aid him from his tiny Duesenberg racer.

"Let me alone, I'm tired," he shouted. It was his only reaction to the fact that he had just won the premier motor classic of the nation and had won approximately $30,000 in the capital prize and lap money.

Second place went to Earl Devore in a Miller Special and third place went to Anthony Gullotta in a Miller Special.

Three drivers were injured in yesterday's race. Jules Ellingboe received a crushed chest when his racer overturned. The speeding cars of Frank Hohlert and Cliff Bergere collided and Kohlert was dangerously injured.

Norman Batten was burned when his motor car burst into flames. He drove the burning machine into the pits and then collapsed.

Taking Panes

A golfer was practicing mashie shots in his garden.

"It isn't too easy," he explained to a friend. "I've to take a lot of trouble to get the shot just right."

With that he put down another ball and addressed it carefully. There was a crash, and the dining-room window was wrecked.

"You took considerable panes with that one," remarked the friend.

His Philosophy

"How dare you throw stones at my little dog?" shrieked the ancient spinster to a coal man.

"The brute bit me, that's why."

"How many times?" inquired the owner, fondling her pet.

"Once, and that's enough, ain't it?"

"Yes—but I say you throw at him twice, you ruffian," said the woman.

"Ah," grinned the coal man, "once bitten, twice shy, you know."

One Ordinary Day in Life of Statistician

Arose, feeling on the peak of the chart. Consumed average breakfast. Assumed average intellectual attitude toward life. (I am an average statistician with a mean disposition.) Organized new end-to-end toothpick circuit, New York to Detroit. Cable from India: Calcutta agent reports terminus reached for Splutter fountain pen line. Splutter pens now circle five-eighths of globe. Estimated potential heat in celluloid collars, with and without necks. Issued report re fact that five out of every nineteen fat men sink anyway; also that more than 24.37 "lost" golf balls are in plain sight all the time.

Statistics during lunch hour on maximum girth of the common garden mole (fam. Talpidoe). Wrote to Reach and Extend bureau about pyramid made of rear collar buttons lost in Hawaii in one year. Mailed circulars on Reversible Statistical Charts for This and That, and Surreptitious Studies in Statistics for Stutterers.

After dinner attended lecture on "Facts and How to Avoid Them." Reflected on the futility of the end-to-end spaghetti problem in Italy. To bed, and fell asleep dividing the sheep jumping over the customary stone wall by some of the digits.—Los Angeles Times.

Black Not Always an Emblem of Mourning

The widow's mourning cap dates back to the days of ancient Egypt. Egyptian men shaved the beard and the head as a token of mourning. The women, instead of cutting off the hair, concealed it with a close cap. The Romans, who were as a race clean shaven, shaved the head in mourning and wore a wig.

The black band on the sleeve, as a sign of mourning, comes from the days of chivalry. The lady tied a scarf or napkin, as the handkerchief was called, about the arm of her knight. If he was killed in battle she wore the band in memory of him.

Black has so long been the color of grief in Anglo-Saxon countries that it seems a part of the upside-down civilization of the East that Japan and China wear white. But no longer ago than the time of Elizabeth the unfortunate Mary of Scotland wore white on the death of Darnley. Even now the hearse used for children is white, and in England the mourners at funerals of young unmarried persons wear hatbands and sashes of white.

A queer English custom is that of decorating the black hearse horses with long black tails.

Where He Needed Moral Support

By AD SCHUSTER

(Copyright.)

"WOULD you lookit him, May? See the way he looks around before he sits down, so sober and refined just like he owned the place and was planning to fire the help. He's what I calls class and I'm here to spread the word."

Lulu filled a water glass as she made ready to serve the new customer, and paid scant attention to the reply of her companion.

"You think all that, do you? Well you are new here, but I know him. Just you wait. If he orders scrambled eggs, you'll see something what will surprise you."

The lordly customer turned to the new waitress with an expression of surprise and pleasure for it was easy to smile at Lulu.

"I think," he said after a moment of apparent concentration, "I will take some scrambled eggs and coffee."

"Scramble two!" Lulu's voice floated through the smoke to the kitchen while May grinned.

"Now you watch him. See how he acts. Maybe, you won't think so much of him after . . . well, anyway, watch him."

When Lulu returned with the order she lingered for the revelation and surprise. The man smiled at her, she thought, a little guiltily, then reached for the sugar. As a gentle fall of snow he spread the confection over the surface of the scrambled egg.

"Sugar on scrambled eggs!" Lulu gasped, but she was ready to return a reassuring look.

"I always do it," he said, apologetically. "I can't help it. Have done it since I was a boy."

As she did not answer he continued in a desperate effort to seek support.

"You, you think it is all right, don't you?"

Lulu looked at him thoughtfully. She liked the way his curly black hair fell on his forehead. She liked his neat appearance and the beseeching look which had taken the place of proud expression which was his when he came in.

"Sugar on scrambled eggs," she replied softly, "is just grand! I always eat mine that way."

The man made an effort to rise, remembered where he was, and sat down again. He was beaming like a boy.

"If you do it," he said, "it's all right. Just let them try to tease me now."

That is the way it started. Thereafter Lulu served him scrambled eggs without so much as waiting for the order and it was she who moved the sugar bowl close to his elbow and encouraged him in his ways. He called her Lulu after the first week and she called him Fred. They talked vaguely of any number of things and looked forward to the breakfast meeting as the big moment in two small lives.

And then they were married with May as bridesmaid and a floral horseshoe in the corner, the gift of the restaurant force. They saw Niagara falls and ate scrambled eggs in hotels of seven cities and, finally, returned to the bungalow that was home. Came the first breakfast as prepared by the bride and fearfully she brought it in.

"Scrambled eggs!" cried Fred. "It is wonderful of you to know I would want them," and he reached for the sugar bowl, helped himself generously, and slid it across to Lulu.

She took the spoon and held it over the eggs. There was a moment of painful indecision.

"I did it in all the hotels, Fred, in places where you needed support, but please, when we are alone can't I eat my eggs without sugar?"

Goliath

The Bible story of Goliath, the giant, does not look so improbable, now that archeological research has established that the original inhabitants of Palestine and Phoenicia were men of colossal stature, or else they could not have wielded the immense weapons which are now being found. At the same time there are now abundant indications that the Israelites waged some terrific battles in the conquest of the Holy Land at a time when Europe was slowly emerging from the ice that had covered it. Human life became possible a good deal later in Asia. Goliath, who was slain by a ruse of the later poet-king of the Hebrews, is thought to have been one of the last of the race of giants, who are already mentioned in the fourth chapter of Genesis, where the text reads: "There were giants on the earth in those days."—Pierre Van Passen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Dead Sea's Evaporation

The Dead sea is 47 miles long. Its maximum breadth is 9½ miles. Its area is about 340 square miles. In the northern section the maximum depth is 1,278 feet; in the southern section it is nowhere more than 12 feet deep and in some places only 3 feet. The quantity of water daily poured into the sea is not less than 6,000,000 tons, all of which has to be carried off by evaporation. The level varies with the season. During the last 40 years it seems to have been rising, especially in the north. There is evidence that the water once stood as much as 1,180 feet above the present level; subsequently it was only 378 feet higher than now.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

FARMER COMES TO TOWN

"I wish to buy some stocks and bonds. Nothing speculative. Public utility stuff preferred."

"Aren't you the farmer I boarded with last summer?"

"I am."

"Beg pardon, but last summer you talked dialect."

"That was for the summer boarders, my friend. I am talking finance now."

Her Come-Back

He—Now that we are married, perhaps I might venture to point out a few of your little defects.

She—Don't bother, dear. I am quite aware of them. It was those little defects that prevented me from getting a much better man than you are.

Sidewalk Conversation

"Pardon me, madam," said the polite motorist, "I splashed one of your stockings."

"Would you kindly splash the other one?"

"Why?"

"I prefer them to match."

Simple Justice

"Kilty or not kilty?" the old German justice said to a man charged with stealing a barrel of coal oil.

"Not guilty, yer honor," said the man.

"Den vat you vant here?" said the old justice fiercely. "Go on away about your peezness!"

SHE'D BRIBE THEM

He—Do you think she'd tip the scales at a hundred and fifty pounds?

She—Yes, she'd actually bribe them if she could.

Some Credit in That

Boasting's a thing most men despise;
But if you have that bent,
Better to boast about your rise
Than brag of your descent.

Extremity

"Edith is able to get money from the man she married without asking for it."

"Lucky woman!"

"Well, perhaps. She had to divorce him to accomplish it."

Ruinous

Mrs. Crawford—Is that all you have left of the beautiful dinner set you got as a wedding present?

Mrs. Crabshaw—Yes; the breaks were against me.

The Danger Signal

"How do you like your efficiency expert?"

"Fine! He says I have too much work to do."—Thrift Magazine.

Enough Said

Mr. Brewer—You had beauty and brains when I married you, Jane.

Mrs. Brewer—Well, I had beauty, but I couldn't have had brains, John.

GODD FOR EXTRA SHOTS

He—Why does she have all her pins in the form of arrows?

She—So that Cupid will have plenty of ammunition, I suppose.

Fear the Band

We have a brand new radio,
And folks, 'tis simply grand
To turn a little dial or two,
And hear a whole string band.

Out of the Ring

Bill—What's all the noise over there?

Ted—Oh, Battling Bloke, the fighter, is having a tooth pulled.

Most Direct Way

Ted—When did you first get acquainted with Bill?

George—The first time I tried to borrow some money.

GEORGE SOUDERS WAS VICTOR IN 500 MILE RACE

HAS COMMANDING LEAD FOR 1927 CHAMPION-SHIP

JUST A YOUTH AND NOVICE ON THE INDIANAPOLIS TRACK

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31. — A figure heretofore unknown in the ranks of motor car race drivers, today has a commanding lead for the 1927 championship following his victor in the Indianapolis 500 mile sweepstake yesterday.

The driver is George Souders.

The winner of yesterday's 500 mile jaunt, which incidentally was made in an average speed of 97.54 miles per hour, is just a youth and almost a novice on the track. He is only 24 years old and it was the first big time race he had ever entered.

Souders is a former student at Purdue University and a quiet spoken chap. When the cars came pounding into the pits at the close of yesterday's race, a score of people rushed to Souders and wanted to aid him from his tiny Duesenberg racer.

"Let me alone, I'm tired," he shouted. It was his only reaction to the fact that he had just won the premier motor classic of the nation and had won approximately $30,000 in the capital prize and lap money.

Second place went to Earl Devore in a Miller Special and third place went to Anthony Gullotta in a Miller Special.

Three drivers were injured in yesterday's race. Jules Ellingboe received a crushed chest when his racer overturned. The speeding cars of Frank Hohlert and Cliff Bergere collided and Kohlert was dangerously injured.

Norman Batten was burned when his motor car burst into flames. He drove the burning machine into the pits and then collapsed.

Taking Panes

A golfer was practicing mashie shots in his garden.

"It isn't too easy," he explained to a friend. "I've to take a lot of trouble to get the shot just right."

With that he put down another ball and addressed it carefully. There was a crash, and the dining-room window was wrecked.

"You took considerable panes with that one," remarked the friend.

His Philosophy

"How dare you throw stones at my little dog?" shrieked the ancient spinster to a coal man.

"The brute bit me, that's why."

"How many times?" inquired the owner, fondling her pet.

"Once, and that's enough, ain't it?"

"Yes—but I say you throw at him twice, you ruffian," said the woman.

"Ah," grinned the coal man, "once bitten, twice shy, you know."

One Ordinary Day in Life of Statistician

Arose, feeling on the peak of the chart. Consumed average breakfast. Assumed average intellectual attitude toward life. (I am an average statistician with a mean disposition.) Organized new end-to-end toothpick circuit, New York to Detroit. Cable from India: Calcutta agent reports terminus reached for Splutter fountain pen line. Splutter pens now circle five-eighths of globe. Estimated potential heat in celluloid collars, with and without necks. Issued report re fact that five out of every nineteen fat men sink anyway; also that more than 24.37 "lost" golf balls are in plain sight all the time.

Statistics during lunch hour on maximum girth of the common garden mole (fam. Talpidoe). Wrote to Reach and Extend bureau about pyramid made of rear collar buttons lost in Hawaii in one year. Mailed circulars on Reversible Statistical Charts for This and That, and Surreptitious Studies in Statistics for Stutterers.

After dinner attended lecture on "Facts and How to Avoid Them." Reflected on the futility of the end-to-end spaghetti problem in Italy. To bed, and fell asleep dividing the sheep jumping over the customary stone wall by some of the digits.—Los Angeles Times.

Black Not Always an Emblem of Mourning

The widow's mourning cap dates back to the days of ancient Egypt. Egyptian men shaved the beard and the head as a token of mourning. The women, instead of cutting off the hair, concealed it with a close cap. The Romans, who were as a race clean shaven, shaved the head in mourning and wore a wig.

The black band on the sleeve, as a sign of mourning, comes from the days of chivalry. The lady tied a scarf or napkin, as the handkerchief was called, about the arm of her knight. If he was killed in battle she wore the band in memory of him.

Black has so long been the color of grief in Anglo-Saxon countries that it seems a part of the upside-down civilization of the East that Japan and China wear white. But no longer ago than the time of Elizabeth the unfortunate Mary of Scotland wore white on the death of Darnley. Even now the hearse used for children is white, and in England the mourners at funerals of young unmarried persons wear hatbands and sashes of white.

A queer English custom is that of decorating the black hearse horses with long black tails.

Short Rays

The Gamma ray is really a super-X-ray, and shorter even than this is the Milliken or Cosmic ray. It is estimated that there are 635 trillion of them to the inch. Their origin has not been established nor a use found for them.

Where He Needed Moral Support

By AD SCHUSTER

(Copyright.)

"WOULD you lookit him, May? See the way he looks around before he sits down, so sober and refined just like he owned the place and was planning to fire the help. He's what I calls class and I'm here to spread the word."

Lulu filled a water glass as she made ready to serve the new customer, and paid scant attention to the reply of her companion.

"You think all that, do you? Well you are new here, but I know him. Just you wait. If he orders scrambled eggs, you'll see something what will surprise you."

The lordly customer turned to the new waitress with an expression of surprise and pleasure for it was easy to smile at Lulu.

"I think," he said after a moment of apparent concentration, "I will take some scrambled eggs and coffee."

"Scramble two!" Lulu's voice floated through the smoke to the kitchen while May grinned.

"Now you watch him. See how he acts. Maybe, you won't think so much of him after . . . well, anyway, watch him."

When Lulu returned with the order she lingered for the revelation and surprise. The man smiled at her, she thought, a little guiltily, then reached for the sugar. As a gentle fall of snow he spread the confection over the surface of the scrambled egg.

"Sugar on scrambled eggs!" Lulu gasped, but she was ready to return a reassuring look.

"I always do it," he said, apologetically. "I can't help it. Have done it since I was a boy."

As she did not answer he continued in a desperate effort to seek support.

"You, you think it is all right, don't you?"

Lulu looked at him thoughtfully. She liked the way his curly black hair fell on his forehead. She liked his neat appearance and the beseeching look which had taken the place of proud expression which was his when he came in.

"Sugar on scrambled eggs," she replied softly, "is just grand! I always eat mine that way."

The man made an effort to rise, remembered where he was, and sat down again. He was beaming like a boy.

"If you do it," he said, "it's all right. Just let them try to tease me now."

That is the way it started. Thereafter Lulu served him scrambled eggs without so much as waiting for the order and it was she who moved the sugar bowl close to his elbow and encouraged him in his ways. He called her Lulu after the first week and she called him Fred. They talked vaguely of any number of things and looked forward to the breakfast meeting as the big moment in two small lives.

And then they were married with May as bridesmaid and a floral horseshoe in the corner, the gift of the restaurant force. They saw Niagara falls and ate scrambled eggs in hotels of seven cities and, finally, returned to the bungalow that was home. Came the first breakfast as prepared by the bride and fearfully she brought it in.

"Scrambled eggs!" cried Fred. "It is wonderful of you to know I would want them," and he reached for the sugar bowl, helped himself generously, and slid it across to Lulu.

She took the spoon and held it over the eggs. There was a moment of painful indecision.

"I did it in all the hotels, Fred, in places where you needed support, but please, when we are alone can't I eat my eggs without sugar?"

Goliath

The Bible story of Goliath, the giant, does not look so improbable, now that archeological research has established that the original inhabitants of Palestine and Phoenicia were men of colossal stature, or else they could not have wielded the immense weapons which are now being found. At the same time there are now abundant indications that the Israelites waged some terrific battles in the conquest of the Holy Land at a time when Europe was slowly emerging from the ice that had covered it. Human life became possible a good deal later in Asia. Goliath, who was slain by a ruse of the later poet-king of the Hebrews, is thought to have been one of the last of the race of giants, who are already mentioned in the fourth chapter of Genesis, where the text reads: "There were giants on the earth in those days."—Pierre Van Passen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Dead Sea's Evaporation

The Dead sea is 47 miles long. Its maximum breadth is 9½ miles. Its area is about 340 square miles. In the northern section the maximum depth is 1,278 feet; in the southern section it is nowhere more than 12 feet deep and in some places only 3 feet. The quantity of water daily poured into the sea is not less than 6,000,000 tons, all of which has to be carried off by evaporation. The level varies with the season. During the last 40 years it seems to have been rising, especially in the north. There is evidence that the water once stood as much as 1,180 feet above the present level; subsequently it was only 378 feet higher than now.

"Beg pardon, but last summer you talked dialect."

"That was for the summer boarders, my friend. I am talking finance now."

Her Come-Back

He—Now that we are married, perhaps I might venture to point out a few of your little defects.

She—Don't bother, dear. I am quite aware of them. It was those little defects that prevented me from getting a much better man than you are.

Sidewalk Conversation

"Pardon me, madam," said the polite motorist, "I splashed one of your stockings."

"Would you kindly splash the other one?"

"Why?"

"I prefer them to match."

Simple Justice

"Kilty or not kilty?" the old German justice said to a man charged with stealing a barrel of coal oil.

"Not guilty, yer honor," said the man.

"Den vat you vant here?" said the old justice fiercely. "Go on away about your peezness!"

SHE'D BRIBE THEM

He—Do you think she'd tip the scales at a hundred and fifty pounds?

She—Yes, she'd actually bribe them if she could.

Some Credit in That

Boasting's a thing most men despise;
But if you have that bent,
Better to boast about your rise
Than brag of your descent.

Extremity

"Edith is able to get money from the man she married without asking for it."

"Lucky woman!"

"Well, perhaps. She had to divorce him to accomplish it."

Ruinous

Mrs. Crawford—Is that all you have left of the beautiful dinner set you got as a wedding present?

Mrs. Crabshaw—Yes; the breaks were against me.

The Danger Signal

"How do you like your efficiency expert?"

"Fine! He says I have too much work to do."—Thrift Magazine.

Enough Said

Mr. Brewer—You had beauty and brains when I married you, Jane.

Mrs. Brewer—Well, I had beauty, but I couldn't have had brains, John.

GODD FOR EXTRA SHOTS

He—Why does she have all her pins in the form of arrows?

She—So that Cupid will have plenty of ammunition, I suppose.

Fear the Band

We have a brand new radio,
And folks, 'tis simply grand
To turn a little dial or two,
And hear a whole string band.

Out of the Ring

Bill—What's all the noise over there?

Ted—Oh, Battling Bloke, the fighter, is having a tooth pulled.

Most Direct Way

Ted—When did you first get acquainted with Bill?

George—The first time I tried to borrow some money.
